The Lincoln University

Location

The Lincoln University is situated amid beautiful and healthful surroundings among the hills and farmlands of Chester County, Pennsylvania, on the Baltimore Pike (U.S. and Pennsylvania Route No. 1). It is 45 miles southwest of Philadelphia and 55 miles north of Baltimore. Frequent bus service to nearby metropolitan areas makes it easily accessible.

Purpose

Lincoln University's principal purpose is to effect understanding among men, through an education exalting the brotherhood of Man under the Fatherhood of God. The University aims to bring together persons of all races, creeds, and nationalities, and in an atmosphere of international brotherhood carry on its special educational functions on an international level. It aims to share cultures, and hopes that the participants in this educational program will be inspired to carry the benefits of mutual friendship and helpfulness to the four corners of the earth.

From these basic aims, three derivative educational purposes stand out:

First, to encourage and develop the intellectual powers of the student in such a manner as will help him acquire and use knowledge, in the broadest cultural sense.

Second, to give the student, whether from the United States or from an overseas area, a command of such specialized training as will prepare him to enter upon graduate studies, in this country or abroad. Such special training will help prepare him for advanced degrees and for careers in the professions, as well as in the public service.

Third, to assist the student in the development of character, self-reliance and genuine manhood, so that he may become a definite asset to his community, to his country, and to humanity everywhere.

The Story of Lincoln

Prior to 1854, the concept of higher education for Negroes was a bold and untried one. Lincoln was the first school established in this country for the specific purpose of meeting this great educational need. The idea and its accomplishment were the direct result of devoted and inspired efforts by the Reverend John Miller Dickey, a Presbyterian minister, and his Quaker wife, Sarah Cresson Dickey.
While Lincoln's first and special mission was to alleviate an existing injustice, the broader base of her goal was to attain the universal brotherhood of man under the Fatherhood of God. Education was believed to be the answer to the struggle for understanding among the peoples of the world.

With a liberal arts curriculum of high quality and a faculty that, through the years, has met high standards, and expected students to meet them, by any criteria Lincoln University has been an extraordinarily successful institution, during its First Century, that ended in 1954.

Up to 1930, if its alumni cannot be said to have dominated the "Negro Church," they did represent, even numerically, the largest percentage of college trained ministers contributed by any college. In 1954 Lincoln men were directing racial and inter-racial activities for the Presbyterian and Protestant Episcopal churches, and one was directing similar work for the National Council of Churches. Others held prominent places in the Methodist and Baptist denominations, two were Bishops of the AMEZ church, and one the highest ranking Negro Chaplain in the Armed Services. Three men were moderators of important presbyteries: Detroit, Carlisle, and Philadelphia.

The University has given pre-medical training to 18% of Negro physicians, and even now, with an increasing enrollment of Negroes in colleges North and South, and with Lincoln's enrollment less than one-half of one percent of the total, graduates each year from five to fifteen percent of Negroes entering American medical colleges. Some of its graduates in Medicine have attained distinction: Lincoln men are in the medical faculties of Howard University, Meharry Medical College, Tufts College, Western Reserve, and the University of Michigan. Hildrus A. Poindexter, '24, now on "lend-lease" to Indo-China, is numbered among the world's great authorities in tropical medicine.

Lincoln men are 10% of the Nation's Negro lawyers, and Thurgood Marshall, '30, is beyond peradventure the greatest pleader before the United States Supreme Court on Civil Rights cases in America. Lincoln men have founded eight colleges and thirty-five academies, and have been president of 35 colleges and universities, two in Africa. In whatever position, they have participated eagerly, successfully, and constructively in the public service. Thomas Miller, '72, was a Congressman from South Carolina; W. Beverly Carter, '43, is currently the Republican candidate for Congress from the 4th (Philadelphia) Pennsylvania District. The number of state senators and representatives, city aldermen and other officials, from Arkansas to Nebraska to Massachusetts, is legion.

They have made their way around the world. The outstanding pastor in British Guinea is a Lincoln man. George Carter, '49, is Regional Director for Southeast Asia of the World Assembly of Youth, a United Nations agency. Charles Nelson, '42, is Advisor on Labor Problems to the
CATALOGUE NUMBER

Philippine Government, and Howard D. Gregg, '18, now heads an educational mission to Afghanistan.

The African Story is the most spectacular. When Ashmun Hall was dedicated on December 31, 1856, the Reverend Cortlandt van Rensselaer spoke on, "God be Glorified by Africa." An ardent Colonizationist, his prophecies regarding Africa must now be viewed soberly as one of the most remarkable projections about that continent's capacities, and future, known to his century.

He said: "Feet that tread these halls shall stand on soil, once wet with the crime of the salve trade. Educated laymen will be sent forth to Africa from the Ashmun Institute. Leaders for the people must be raised up. The education, which God provided for Moses, made him 'learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians,' preparatory to the work of governing the Israelites. A rising state calls for cultivated intellect. The formation of its character and the management of its affairs cannot be entrusted to ignorant and narrow-minded men."

Since that prophetic dedication in 1856, the feet of 165 Africans have trodden "these halls," and 25 Americans have gone forth to labor in Africa. From South Africa, to Kenya in the East, and Liberia, Sierra Leone, the Gold Coast, Nigeria, and the Cameroons, they have come; and, like Moses, they now govern their people. Nnamdi Azikiwe, '30, the spark of African Nationalism, is now Leader of Government Business in Eastern Nigeria and the most powerful figure in the Nigerian Federation of over thirty million folk. Kwame Nkrumah, '39, '42s, became in 1951 the first African Prime Minister of an emerging State. Lincoln men, Africans, are university professors, hospital directors, utilities managers, schoolmasters and college presidents. Truly it may be said that Lincoln men have in Africa reshaped the history of that Continent, and so, of the entire World. In them alone the institution might find complete justification for its first century, consecrating with an amazing fruition the bold prophecies and faith with which this first of all truly International institutions in America was launched, in so dark and dismal a time one hundred years ago.

These are some of the attainments of the Alumni, of that special racial clientele for which the institution was originally chartered. It is little known, that Lincoln University has never excluded any prospective student because of race, or religion; that white students have been regularly enrolled in the institution, at least since 1862, and perhaps before. Approximately 3% of the student body, former students, and alumni, have been white; this "minority" has included persons of distinction. One such alumnus is an atomic physicist; another is a distinguished psychiatrist in a Texas city; another received an award for being America's most distinguished rural clergyman; others are prominent in business, medicine, and in other capacities. One former student became a Registrar, and another, Professor of Turkish Languages, at Princeton; these were sons of faculty members.

Lincoln University's New Program

In 1954, Lincoln faces her second century—proud of her heritage and her accomplishment, yet humble in the realization that her basic mission remains unfulfilled. Lincoln is anxious to serve God and mankind with renewed devotion.

The need for special colleges for Negroes has been all but obliterated. Humanity has been awakened. Man moves closer and closer to the solution of his racial problems. Most colleges have opened their doors to all.

Today's need is an even greater one. As science has advanced and made a better world it has created wars and new crises, resulting in an era of fear and mistrust. Basic to mankind's hopes and longings for world peace is an increasing sense of brotherhood. Once again, this can be achieved largely through education. But it must be a special kind of education, an education designed to effect understanding based on brotherhood. It must be education on an international level in an atmosphere of international brotherhood. In this atmosphere cultures can be truly shared and the participants can be inspired to carry its benefits to the four corners of the earth.

As the world becomes smaller by advances in communication, the need becomes greater to fill this void in the world's educational systems. No such truly international University exists. Lincoln University proposes to be that kind of an institution.

Description

The University is under the control of an independent Board of Trustees, a self-perpetuating body consisting of thirty-one members. Three members of the Board are nominated by the Alumni, for election by the Board: one each year for a term of three years. Two members of the Board are nominated by the Faculty, for election by the Board: for terms of three years. The Governor of the Commonwealth, and the President of the University, are ex-officio members of the Board.

Twenty-four members of the Board are elected by the Board, to serve in six classes with terms of four years each.

The officers of the Board consist of a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary, and a Treasurer, elected annually. There are three stated meetings of the Board: on the third Saturday in April, on the day of the University Commencement, and on the second Thursday of November.

The University owns endowment funds of more than one million dollars, and buildings and grounds of an estimated value of $2,000,000. The grounds consist of 350 acres of land, of which part is farmed, part is woodlot, and part is campus.
1853: In a sermon preached at Oxford, in August, John Miller Dickey proposed the establishment of a college for colored youth, as the prime necessity for the elevation of what was then a neglected and oppressed people. He said: "A race enlightened in the knowledge of God will eventually be free. Kindly the lamp of religious knowledge; it will surely light them to an elevated position among the people of the earth."

At a meeting of the Presbytery of New Castle, at Coatesville, October 4, America's first college with an international design was authorized: "... an institution to be called Ashmun Institute, for the scientific, classical, and theological education of colored youth of the male sex."

A farm of 30 acres near Hinsonville (now Lincoln University) was purchased as the site of the proposed institution. It was named for Jehudi Ashmun, the first Governor of Liberia, in West Africa. It was hoped that most of the graduates would go overseas as teachers and missionaries to Africa.

1854: The first charter, giving the Trustees powers to establish a degree-granting institution, was granted by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, under the name of Ashmun Institute, and signed by Governor Bigler on April 29.

1856: Ashmun Institute was dedicated and its first President, Reverend John P. Carter, D.D., was installed on December 31. The dedicatory sermon was preached by the Reverend Cortlandt van Rensselaer, D.D., on the theme, "God will be glorified by Africa."

1857: Ashmun Institute was opened on January 1 to four students.

1859: The first three students completed their studies and went to Africa as missionaries. They were: James R. Amos, Thomas H. Amos, and Armisted Miller.

1861: The Civil War plunged the school into great difficulties, financial and otherwise.

1861: The Reverend John W. Martin, D.D., became President in 1861. Most of the students left to enlist in the Union Army and Navy. Dr. Dickey mortgages his house to provide funds to run the school.

1865: The Reverend Isaac Norton Rendall, D.D., a graduate of Princeton College in the class of 1852 and of the Princeton Theological Seminary in the class of 1855, was called to the Presidency of Ashmun Institute, beginning a service which was to last 40 years as President, and seven more as President-emeritus. On the day after the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, Dr. Rendall was on the train en route to assume direction of the Institute. He succeeded Rev. John Wynn Martin, D.D., retired.

1866: In accordance with plans for the expansion of the Institute as outlined by the Trustees in a report to the Presbyterian General Assembly in 1865, the charter of Ashmun Institute was amended by the Legislature of Pennsylvania (approved by Governor Curtin on April 4), and the name was changed to “The Lincoln University” —the institution thus becoming the first to bear the name of Abraham Lincoln.

The first section of the Act changed the name of Ashmun Institute, to “The Lincoln University” for these reasons stated in the report:

“For satisfactory reasons, chiefly in honor of the illustrious patriot, statesman, and philanthropist, the loved and lamented Abraham Lincoln, who, when living, delighted to serve the long-oppressed and neglected people for whom this institution has been provided, and who, in dying, sealed his devotion to an emancipated race, it was considered an appropriate expression of gratitude that the enlarged plans and combined buildings of this educational scheme should bear the worthy name of him who did so much to lift the crushing loads from the mind and the heart and the body and the manhood of the African. Hence, in view of the rapidly expanding work now before the institution, because of its hard-earned experience, its complex demands, and its ample powers to make provision for the thorough education of the students in every department of a classical, scientific, theological, and professional training, the Legislature of Pennsylvania has conferred upon it the title of ‘The Lincoln University.’”

1871: On February 18 Governor Geary approved a supplement to the charter in which “all powers and authority in the affairs of The Lincoln University heretofore held by the Presbytery of New Castle, be and are hereby conferred upon the Board of Trustees of said Lincoln University.”

1878: Rev. John Miller Dickey, D.D., died on March 20 . . . “So passed this noble man, this ‘Prince in Israel,’ from the scene of his earthly labors, for, verily, his works do follow him.”

1904: Celebration of fiftieth anniversary with a large assembly of alumni and friends.

1906: Rev. John Ballard Rendall, D.D., nephew of Rev. Isaac Norton Rendall, was elected President of the University. He rounded out a “Rendall Administration” from 1865 to 1924; “60 years save one —which witnessed the growth of the institution from a primitive beginning to a full-grown college of recognized rank."

1910: President William Howard Taft spoke at the commencement on June 18, the first President of the United States to address the students of Lincoln University.

1912: Rev. Isaac Norton Rendall, D.D., President for forty years, died on October 15, in his 88th year, held in affectionate remembrance as "a man sent from God."

1917: Commencement omitted because of war conditions. Many Lincoln graduates were in military service.

1921: Alumni Arch, memorial to Lincoln men in the World War, dedicated with an address by President Warren G. Harding, the second President of the United States to deliver an address at The Lincoln University.

1924: Rev. John Ballard Rendall, D.D., President since 1906, died on September 3. His service, first as a teacher in the preparatory department, then as a professor in the college, next as Dean of the College, and finally as President of the University, covered more than half a century, a longer term than that of any other man in its history.

1927: Rev. William Hallock Johnson, D.D., inaugurated as President on October 20 after long service as professor and Dean.

1928: Survey of colleges and Universities issued by the United States Bureau of Education contains the following statement: "throughout its long history The Lincoln University has rendered an excellent service to society worthy in every respect of the support that has been accorded it. . . . The Survey Committee was impressed with the able manner in which the institution was being administered."

1929: The Lincoln University celebrated the 75th anniversary of its founding at commencement. President Herbert Hoover, in a message of congratulation, praised "its splendid services on behalf of education." The work of the University went forward rapidly under the administration of President Johnson with large additions to the endowment and the plant.

1936: President William Hallock Johnson retired from the presidency January 31, and was succeeded by the Vice President, Walter Livingstone Wright, since 1893 Professor of Mathematics.

1937: Lincoln University became a "state-aided" institution through an initial appropriation of $50,000 for the biennium 1937-1939.
1945: Dr. Wright retired from the presidency October 1, and was succeeded by Dr. Horace Mann Bond.

1946: Dr. Wright, who since his retirement from the Presidency had continued to serve as Professor of Mathematics, died on January 17, after completing fifty-three years of service to the University.

1952: Although white students had always been admitted freely to the institution, the archaic clause, "... an institution for colored youth of the male sex" had remained as a part of the Charter first granted in 1854. Both restrictive qualifications were stricken from the Charter, and an earned baccalaureate degree was conferred for the first time on a woman—Mrs. Walter Fales.

1953: The Board of Trustees announced a "New Program" for Lincoln University, designing it to become an institution enrolling persons of all races and nationalities, and proposing an extensive expansion of the physical plant.

1954: The University celebrated its Centennial Year, adopting the theme, "Free Persons in a Free World Through Education and Brotherhood." Beginning with a formal Convocation on September 18, 1953, successive events followed in the year. The contribution of the Theological Seminary was commemorated at a Convocation held November 8, 1953, in Philadelphia. A Centennial Exhibit was displayed at Gimbel's Gallery, February 12-26, 1954. A Centennial Charter Day Convocation on April 29, 1954, brought world-wide greetings and delegates from over 300 Colleges, Universities, learned societies, and other organizations. A Social Science Conference followed, April 29-30. The Friends Historical Association met on the campus May 15, to celebrate the part played by Friends in the establishment of the institution, and the bicentennial of John Woolman's "Epistle" condemning slavery, issued in 1754. The Centennial Commencement was celebrated June 4-8, 1954, with reunions of Alumni from all over the world—the two most distant alumni returning being the Reverends Thomas Chalmers Katiya, '00, '03, and Livingstone N. Mzimba, '06, '09—both from South Africa. Other events of the Centennial Year included national radio and television broadcasts.
Buildings

On the campus are the following buildings:

University Hall, 1891, built by undesignated funds, a three-story brick building, containing seventeen large and well-lighted rooms, used for lecture and recitation purposes.

The Mary Dod Brown Memorial Chapel, 1892, gift of the late Mrs. Susan Dod Brown, of Princeton, N. J., a Gothic structure of dark red brick with a square bell-tower, containing an audience room for 400 persons, and an adjacent hall for 200. A recent addition to the Chapel is a Hammond Electric Organ.

Ashmun Hall and Lincoln Hall, dormitories, built by undesignated funds in 1856 and 1866, respectively.

Cresson Hall, 1870, gift of the Freedmen's Bureau, through the interest of General O. O. Howard, then a Trustee of Lincoln University.

Rendall Hall, a new dormitory opened for use in 1931, named in honor of two former presidents of the University, Isaac N. Rendall and his nephew, John B. Rendall, and built by funds provided by the General Education Board, the Julius Rosenwald Fund, Miss Carolina Hazard, Mr. Pierre S. duPont, Mr. J. Frederic Talcott, and other generous friends, containing in addition to dormitory rooms with all modern conveniences, a large reception room, a Y.M.C.A. room with committee rooms, a barber shop, clothes pressing room, and trunk storage compartment.

Houston Hall, 1881, gift of the late H. H. Houston of Philadelphia, a dormitory and classroom building for theological students.

The Guest House—formerly used as a residence for the President of the University—provides facilities for entertaining overnight guests.

The Ladies' Auxiliary Guest House—constructed and completely furnished in 1954 through a donation from The Ladies' Auxiliary of Lincoln University—provides facilities for entertaining overnight guests and for student social activities.

The McCauley Refectory, 1904, the gift of the late Dr. Thomas McCauley and Mrs. Mary D. McCauley, a three-story brick building used as the University dining hall, and residence of the dietitian.

The Science Hall, erected in 1925, with funds contributed by the Alumni and other friends, aided by the General Education Board and Mr. Pierre S. duPont. The building contains lecture rooms and laboratories for the departments of physics, biology, and chemistry.

THE FELLOWSHIP LODGE was built in 1941 out of funds furnished largely through the student Y.M.C.A. It provides a meeting place for student gatherings, and is used frequently throughout the year by a variety of groups. Through its use the religious, social, and recreational aspects of student life are promoted.

THE CENTRAL HEATING PLANT, renovated in 1931, at an expense of $75,000, contributed by the General Education Board, Mr. Pierre S. duPont, Mr. Lammot duPont, and Mr. John H. Ware, Jr.

THE OLD GYMNASIUM, 1935, built with funds contributed by Miss Susan Gorgas, members of the Alumni, and the General Education Board.

THE GRIM GYMNASIUM, made available by the Federal Works Agency as part of the Veterans Educational Facilities program, was completed for use by the 1947 fall term.

THE DISPOSAL PLANT, 1936, a new modern sewer system and sewage treatment plant, constructed with funds given by the General Education Board.

Twenty-four dwelling houses are used as residences for professors and other members of the University staff.

Housing facilities for 16 married student veterans and 80 single veterans have been erected by the University in cooperation with the Federal Housing Authority.

NEEDS AND OPPORTUNITIES

Sources of Current Income. The University is maintained by income from endowment, by annual grant from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by student fees, and by contributions from friends interested in keeping up and extending the work of the University.

Endowment. There is great need for further endowment both in smaller and larger amounts.

Twenty-five hundred dollars will endow a scholarship with the name of the donor perpetually attached. Larger sums will provide for greatly needed additions to the teaching and library staff. These endowments are permanent memorials of the donors.

Revolving Loan Fund. The University has a revolving loan fund from which eligible students may receive short term financial assistance upon recommendation of the Scholarship Committee.

Buildings and Grounds. The greatest need of the University is for funds to enlarge its physical plant.

Through temporary structures obtained from wartime camps, the enrollment of the University has been increased temporarily. These temporary buildings need permanent replacements.

The Recitation Hall erected in 1891, and the Dining Hall in 1904, were planned for a college of 200 students.
The Alumni, by making cash contributions of $120,000, to the Alumni Building Fund, have already made possible improved dining room facilities, as well as establishing one of the most remarkable records of sacrificial giving in the history of small colleges in America. Alumni bequests valued at $320,000 have been received in the five years, 1946-1951.

Additional funds are needed immediately for the extension of library and laboratory facilities.

Student Aid. Money for scholarships is urgently needed. The University serves a population now producing many young men of great promise, but of limited economic resources. Scholarship gifts will enable some men to continue their studies who otherwise would have to discontinue for lack of funds.

The University especially appeals for student aid for able students.

Annuities and Bequests. The Life Annuity Plan offers to donors an opportunity of making gifts to the University during their lifetime, without sacrificing any of their present income. A formal agreement is given to the donor, binding the Board to pay an annual sum in semi-annual remittances during life at rates varying from five to nine percent, according to age at the time the Annuity Gift is made.

When it is intended to make bequests to The Lincoln University, care should be taken in the preparation of wills to use the exact corporate name as known and recognized in courts of law, namely, “The Lincoln University,” and to add its location, “Chester County, Pennsylvania.”

Information

Information and literature concerning the University or its needs may be obtained from the President, Horace Mann Bond, at Lincoln University.

Religious Institutions and Opportunities

The “Ashmun Church” was established under the control of the local Presbytery of Chester as a church home for college students. While it is organized as a Presbyterian Church, members of all denominations are received, and letters of dismission to churches of other denominations are given when they leave the University.

The Young Men’s Christian Association has an active organization in the University. It cooperates with the national, the state, and the southern branches of the Association, and promotes locally a program of religious and recreational work. There are also clubs for members of the several denominational groups.

Assembly exercises are held every Tuesday and Thursday morning. Every Sunday morning a religious service is conducted in the University Chapel. On Wednesday evenings weekly prayer meetings are held.

Health Program

The conservation of health and the maintenance of sanitary conditions in the University are under the direct charge of a resident University Physician. There is an infirmary on the campus where students suffering from minor ailments may get special care. Cases requiring hospitalization are cared for at the Chester County Hospital, 25 miles away.

The University Health Service is designed to cover the bare cost of initial health examination, ordinary medical attention, simple prescriptions, and a maximum of ten days hospitalization in a school year upon recommendation of the University Physician. The University does not assume responsibility for providing medical care for extended periods and for more than ordinary attention. The student is referred to his personal physician for extended care and treatment. The student must bear the cost of this care and treatment, as well as the cost of any special medicines, special procedures, and operations.

Students and parents are urged to avail themselves of the services of private health insurance companies for coverage of the expenses of illness and treatment beyond what the University Health Service undertakes to provide.

A Dental Operatory is located on the campus for the detection and care of dental defects. General cleaning of teeth, extractions, and simple fillings will be taken care of without additional charge other than that listed under "General Fees." Special dental care, such as bridges, plates, and special fillings, will necessitate an additional charge.

The Health and Medical Fee, which is part of the "General Fee" is paid by all students.

Recreational and Physical Welfare of Students

The Department of Physical Education promotes the physical welfare of the students by directing gymnastic drills and intramural sports. The campus provides ample space for all outdoor sports. A new running track, the funds for which were donated by members of the Class of 1925, and a new gymnasium, are recent additions to the University's facilities for free play and for courses in health and physical education.

Game rooms are provided in the recently (1946) equipped Student Center, formerly the field house for athletic teams.

Moving pictures are shown regularly on the campus. An extensive Lyceum Program brings outstanding artists and lecturers to the University and its surrounding community.

Student Organizations

The Faculty has adopted the following regulation for student organizations:
(1) All student organizations must be approved by the Faculty and must be officially authorized to carry on programs, recruit members, or to use the name and facilities of the University.

(2) The formation or continued existence of a student organization is dependent upon its observing University regulations and contributing positively to the fulfillment of University objectives.

(3) Any student organization shall forfeit its right to exist, or to carry on activities on the campus, if it fails or refuses to abide by University regulations in reference to individual or group behavior.

Fraternities: The following intercollegiate fraternities have branches at The Lincoln University: Alpha Phi Alpha, founded at Cornell University in 1906; Kappa Alpha Psi, founded at Indiana University in 1911; Omega Psi Phi, founded at Howard University in 1911; Phi Beta Sigma, founded at Howard University in 1914; and Beta Sigma Tau, founded at Roosevelt College in 1948.

The John Miller Dickey Service Society is composed of college students who plan to enter the ministry. It meets twice a month for the discussion of religious and social topics.

The Lincoln Chapter of The Alpha Kappa Alpha Honorary Fraternity in Philosophy sponsors weekly discussions of philosophical topics.

The Delta Rho Forensic Society is organized to promote the art of debate, oratory, and all forms of public speaking. The intercollegiate debates are sponsored by this society.

The Varsity Club, composed of students who have won their "L" in any sport, fosters student morale and encourages good sportsmanship at all times.

The Lincoln University Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People carries out in the University and the neighborhood the aims of this organization.

The Intramural Athletic Association endeavors to get every student into some form of athletic sport. It fosters class competition in football, basketball, track, baseball, tennis, boxing and wrestling.

The Alpha Chapter of The Beta Kappa Chi Honorary Scientific Society is composed of those students who have met the requirements of the Society by completing a minimum of twenty-five semester hours in the biological and physical sciences with an average of "B" and a general subject average not lower than "C." The aims of the Society are to foster scholarship, sponsor programs of scientific interest, and to encourage intercollegiate relationship among students of science.
CATALOGUE NUMBER

THE PHI LAMBDA SIGMA LITERARY SOCIETY, an honorary society, elects its members twice a year from those students who have completed at least fifteen semester hours in English with a rating of 1.80 or better.

THE LINCOLN UNIVERSITY MUSICAL CLUB, organized in 1918, is composed of Glee Club, Quartette, and Choir. Membership is open to all who have the necessary training and interest. The aim of the club is to increase the appreciation of music and to develop musical talent among the student body.

THE LINCOLN UNIVERSITY PLAYERS grants membership to all who are interested in actual performance in the field of dramatics. The Players hold membership in the Negro Intercollegiate Dramatic Association.

The University Library

The Vail Memorial Library is a porticoed brick building erected through the gift of William H. Vail, M.D., of Newark, N. J., who was for many years a trustee as well as a benefactor of the University. Volumes on the shelves approximate 54,000. For the purchase of books and periodicals and their binding, some $6,500 is expended annually.

A new addition (1953) has been made to The Vail Memorial Library. This was made possible through funds from The Davella Mills Foundation, of Upper Montclair, N. J., and from the United Negro College Fund, Inc. New books, reading rooms, seminar rooms, exhibition space and conference rooms have been added.

A unique African Art Collection of more than 500 items, given by Dr. Irvin W. Underhill, of Philadelphia, as a memorial to Susan Reynolds Underhill, is on display.

A branch library in Houston Hall brings to the Seminary students new and standard theological works, and the leading periodicals.

The University Bookstore

The University maintains a bookstore situated in the student center. Necessary textbooks are sold at list prices.

Accommodations for Visitors

Guests are welcome at the University. Meals may be obtained at the Refectory or Coffee Shop, and overnight lodging at the Guest House, at nominal cost. Persons desiring accommodations should contact the Dean of Students in advance of their coming.
The College

GENERAL INFORMATION

Rating of the College

The College is approved by the College and University Council of the State of Pennsylvania, the American Medical Association, and since December 1, 1922, as a fully accredited four-year Senior college, by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Admission, Advanced Standing and Withdrawal

Those who desire to enroll in the College Department should write to the Registrar (address: Lincoln University, Pa.) for an application blank and for a health certificate. These should be filled in and returned to the Registrar, who will then secure the previous scholastic record of the applicant and notify him as to his scholastic eligibility to enter.

Admission by Certificate

To be admitted by certificate the candidate must have completed a minimum of sixteen acceptable units in a secondary school accredited as a standard senior high school either by the state authorities or by the regional accrediting bodies.

The sixteen units of secondary school credits offered for admission should be distributed as follows:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Subjects</th>
<th>Units</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>*English</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>*Mathematics: Elementary Algebra</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Plane Geometry</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Foreign Language, in one language</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>History or Civics</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Elective subjects</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>16</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

It is recommended that the elective subjects include two of science, one of foreign language, one of mathematics, one of history and social science, and not more than two of the vocational subjects usually taught in secondary schools. The College Department may, at its discretion, accept equivalent preparation.

If a candidate is deficient in mathematics he will be required to complete, during his Freshman year, certain collateral courses, to be credited only toward the removal of deficiencies.

* Required for admission.
ADMISSION BY EXAMINATION

To be admitted by examination the candidate must submit the results of the examinations taken under any recognized examining body: the New York Board of Regents, the College Entrance Examination Board, the Local Examinations of the English Universities; or, The Lincoln University Entrance Examinations.

These latter examinations are held each spring in cooperation with a number of other colleges, usually during the first week in March, in convenient centers throughout the country and periodically at the University. The schedule of these examinations is announced through the press and will be given to candidates on request.

ADMISSION WITH ADVANCED STANDING

A student who has taken work at a college of recognized standing may be admitted with such advanced credits as his previous records may warrant. The applicant should request the institution last attended to send to the Registrar a transcript of his academic record. On the basis of this transcript a tentative estimate can be given the candidate as to the prescribed work he must do and the length of time it will take him to earn a degree. At the end of the semester he will be given a definite classification with a notification of the exact amount of residence work he must complete before recommendation for the degree.

No applicant may enter the Senior class as a candidate for a degree after October 1st in any year, and no student will be recommended for a degree who has resided less than two semesters at Lincoln University.

Candidates for advanced standing must also furnish the following certificates: (1) a certificate of honorable dismissal from the institution previously attended, (2) a certificate of good moral character from an authorized representative of his college, (3) a certificate of sound health.

TESTING PROGRAM: NEW STUDENTS

Students entering the College for the first time will be required to take a Psychological Test and such other Placement Tests as the Faculty may decide. These tests are not intended to determine the admission of the student, but to indicate the grade of work of which he is capable and the most efficient method of teaching him.

FEES

Before attending any University exercise each student must comply with the regulations in regard to registration and payment of fees. He must present himself in person at the University Office and there obtain an official matriculation card signed by the Business Manager and a card showing the courses he is permitted to take during the ensuing semester. Students already in the college must follow the same procedure on dates set for registration at the opening of each semester. Failure to comply with this procedure on the dates assigned will subject the student to an extra fee of $5.00 unless excused by the Dean of Men. Even if so excused he is held accountable for absences thus incurred.
CATALOGUE NUMBER

Students presenting satisfactory excuses for tardy registration may be admitted to the College during a period not exceeding two weeks after the opening of any semester. This action will not preclude the payment of the late registration fee.

Each person whose registration has been completed will be considered a student of the University during the period for which such registration is valid as indicated on the matriculation card.

WITHDRAWAL

An honorable discharge will be granted to any student in good academic standing, not subject to discipline, provided his financial obligations to the University have been met and his library card has been cleared. However, no student under the age of twenty-one years will be granted a discharge without the consent of his parents or guardian furnished in writing to the Dean. Students withdrawing are required to notify the University Office.

Terms and Vacation

The University year includes thirty-six weeks of term time, divided into two semesters. There is a Thanksgiving recess of four days, a Christmas recess of two weeks, and an Easter recess of six days. Commencement Day is the first Tuesday following the first Monday in June. The College begins its school year on the third Tuesday in September.
Courses numbered 100 are primarily for freshmen; those numbered 200 are primarily for sophomores. Similarly, those numbered 300 are intended for juniors; those numbered 400, for seniors. Although considerable privilege will be granted students in the upper college who wish courses in the 300 or the 400 groups, students may not elect courses above or below their college level without special permission. The curriculum is divided into the lower level (freshman and sophomore courses) and the upper level (junior and senior offerings).

Courses designated by one number are semester courses (odd numbers are employed for courses given in the first semester, and even numbers for courses given in the second semester).

\textit{Year courses are designated by an odd number and an even number separated by a hyphen.}

The credit allowed for each course is indicated in semester hours.

An asterisk (*) indicates courses required of students majoring in the department.

Courses are distributed into three major divisions as follows:

I. The Humanities.
   1. English
   2. The Classics
   3. The Modern Languages
   4. Music
   5. Art
   6. Philosophy

Division I
THE HUMANITIES

The division of the Humanities comprises the courses in English, Ancient Languages, Modern Languages, Music, Art, Philosophy, and Religion.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE
Messrs. Hill, Bradley, Mrs. G. Rivero

101-102. English Composition.
(Given each year) Credit: Six hours
A course consisting of a review of the principles of grammar, and a complete study of composition and rhetoric, together with collateral readings. It is required of all Freshmen.

*201-202. English Literature.
(Given each year) Credit: Six hours
This course aims to survey the history of English literature from the earliest times through the Restoration (first semester), and from the Romantic Movement to the present (second semester). Collateral readings and papers. Required of all Sophomores except those electing English 207-208.

203-204. Advanced Composition.
(Given 1954-55) Credit: Six hours
Designed primarily as a laboratory for students who are already well-grounded in the principles of composition, this course requires development of facile skill in the major forms of prose. Research in the technical aspects of these forms is required.

207-208. General Literature.
This course endeavors to establish a broad development of the culture of the Western World as observed, principally, in the literature from the Ninth Century before Christ to the present era. The approach will be both historical and aesthetic, correlating music and art with the literature. Conducted by members of the instructional staff of the Humanities Division. Credit: 6 hours, in the department of English.

*An asterisk indicates courses required for a major. Majors are expected to take Philosophy 201-202. Credit also may include Greek 304 and Greek 307.
Limited in enrollment to students with satisfactory academic records. This course may be substituted for English 201-202. Text: Writers of the Western World, by Hibbard.

*301-302. American Literature.
(Given each year)
Credit: Six hours

A survey course in the history of American literature. In the first semester the literature from the settlement of North America to 1870 is covered; in the second semester the literature from 1870 to the present is covered, including major contemporary writers (except dramatists). Periodic papers are required.

Credit: Six hours

This course is designed as a survey and appreciation of the Dramatic Arts from the primitive ceremonial through the motion picture. Study and discussion are based on representative dramas of the period under consideration. An effort is made to illustrate the relative contributions of the stage, the playwright, the actor and the spectator.

*305-306. 17th and 18th Century Literature.
Credit: Six hours

A study of the major prose and poetry of the period, with special attention to Donne and the Metaphysical poets, the Cavalier poets, Milton, and Dryden. In the second semester a study of the Augustan Age, emphasizing the contributions of Defoe, Addison, Steele, Swift, Pope, Dr. Johnson and his circle will be given.

Credit: Six hours

A survey of the rise of the periodical in English literature, through the essays of Carlyle, Ruskin, Arnold, Borrow, Bagehot, Pater and others. In the second semester, a careful study of the later poets of the nineteenth century, from Tennyson and Browning to Thomson. Special attention will be given to the Pre-Raphaelites.

Credit: Six hours

A Laboratory Course in the development of journalistic techniques. Reporting, feature writing, editorial writing, layout, and makeup are stressed through the study of representative newspapers and magazines. Application of theory by participation in editing and publishing The Lincolinian is required. (Special emphasis in creative writing, second semester.)

*401-402. Shakespeare and His Contemporaries.
Credit: Six hours

The study of at least twenty plays, including a detailed analysis of six, with a survey of the life and times of Shakespeare, constitute the work of this course.
Mary Dod Brown Memorial Chapel
The second semester develops the general literature of the Elizabethan period; special attention is given to the development of the drama from its origin to the closing of the theatres in 1642. Among the authors studied are Jonson, Marlowe, Webster, Beaumont, and Fletcher.

*403-404. Fiction in English and American Literature.
Credit: Six hours

A survey of major novels and short stories which emphasize the history of these art forms and the development of their techniques and trends. British and American works are studied primarily; continental works are studied for comparison. Lectures on the selected authors and their contributions to the development of the art forms, analyses of their representative works, and the writing of research papers constitute the work of the course.

406. Contemporary Drama.
Credit: Six hours

This course, tracing the origins and development of modern drama from the 19th century to the present, is devoted to the study of the major playwrights of the Continent, of the British Isles, and of America. Special emphasis is laid on the theatrical as well as the literary significance of the plays.

405. Contemporary Literature.
Credit: Three hours

A brief review of the contemporary writers of British and American Literature from the end of World War I to the present. Some contemporary novelists are included.

SPEECH

(A laboratory fee of $6.00 is charged for each year course)

103-104. Argumentation and Public Speaking.
Credit: Six hours

During the first semester the principles of argumentation and debate are studied. Special attention is given to the composition and delivery of arguments, to group discussions and investigations.

Fundamentals of speech, voice, diction, and gesture are emphasized in the second semester. Training in vocal techniques is made possible through voice recordings from model records and from records of each student.

Credit: Six hours

The essentials of acting and play production. Through lectures, but more specifically through laboratory work, a basic knowledge of dramatics is established. Students are expected to participate in all productions of the Lincoln Players.

FRENCH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

Messrs. Waring, Grubb, and Kuehner

101-102. Elementary French.
(Given each year)
Credit: Six hours

This is a course for beginners. Classes are held four times a week, but the credit is for three hours each semester. Drill is given on the basic grammar of the French language, and there is systematic work in composition. One hour a week is devoted to oral drill. The reading for this course includes the selections in the grammar text and those in a carefully organized reader for first-year students.

(Given each year)
Credit: Six hours

In this course there is a complete review of French grammar and more advanced work in written composition. As is the case with Elementary French, classes are held four times a week, with the fourth period being devoted to intensive oral drill. During the course of the year the student does a substantial amount of reading. One of the aims of this course is to give the student a general idea of French civilization.

*301-302. Advanced French.
(Given each year)
Credit: Six hours

During this year there is continued drill on grammar and on composition, both written and oral. Classes, however, are held only three times a week. The major aim of this course is to give the students a perspective of French literature from the beginnings to the contemporary period. For this purpose an anthology is used, and the effort is made to have the students enjoy and appreciate the various selections as examples of great literature rather than as mere classroom assignments. In this course there is a certain amount of outside reading.

*401-402. French Literature.
Credit: Six hours

The following courses may be given as needed:

a) Mediaeval French literature.
b) The literature of the Renaissance.
c) French classicism.
d) Survey of 18th Century literature.
e) French literature in the 19th Century.
f) French poetry in the 19th Century.

MUSIC
Mr. Suthern

The courses in the department of music are designed to (1) provide a foundation and a basis for graduate study in musicology, music literature and theory; (2) to give the Lincoln student a survey of music literature and its importance in our culture; (3) to provide through group participation a practical acquaintance with many phases of choral music.

(Given each year) Credit: Six hours

An introduction to the fundamentals of music and a survey of the periods of musical history of Western Civilization, with musical illustrations of representative works from the periods. Musical illustrations are learned from recordings and demonstration by line performance.

103-104. Choral Music.

No Credit

Fundamentals of choral technique and a sizeable repertoire of choral music learned by practical work. Course open only to members of the University Glee Club and Choir.

105. Masterpieces of Operatic Literature.

Credit: Three hours

A study of the development of opera, and of important opera composers and some of their representative works. Musical illustrations are learned from recordings.

106. Masterpieces of Symphonic Literature.

Credit: Three hours

A study of the development of the symphony and of important composers and their representative works. Musical illustrations are learned from recordings.

107. Masterpieces of Keyboard Literature.

Credit: Three hours

A study of the development of significant literature for piano and organ; representative composers and their works. Musical illustrations learned from recordings and live performances.

108. Masterpieces of Vocal Literature.

Credit: Three hours

A study of the development of literature for the voice; representative composers and their works. Musical illustrations are taken from recordings.

Instruction in harmonization of melodies, both written and keyboard. Simple rhythms, tonal relationships—melodic and harmonic—including scales, intervals, triads and their inversions, figured bass technique, seventh chords and their inversions, non-harmonic tones, simple modulations, simple analysis and form, and original work in the elementary forms. The ability to read music and simple pianistic ability are required.

203-204. Church Music. A Course organized for Seminary students but also available for College students.

(A given each year)
A course designed to aid the minister in understanding the problems pertinent to the use of music in worship. The first semester deals with the basic appreciation of hymns and hymn singing, chanting, etc. The course is concerned with the practical problems of finance, volunteer choirs, youth choirs, technics of conducting, soloists, the organist, and the choral director. There will be some listening required which will be helpful in the development of taste and appreciation of choral music for the church.

Services for regular worship as well as for funerals, weddings and other occasions will be planned. A study of the organ—its types, construction and literature—is made. Through recordings, radio, piano and organ illustration, and group participation, the larger forms such as the oratorio are studied, emphasizing materials from which service music is frequently drawn.

(Given in 1955-56) Credit: Six hours
Essentials of advanced harmony, chromatic alterations, modulations, analysis of masterworks and original compositions; keyboard work. Theory of Music 103-104 prerequisite.

303. Counterpoint.

(Given in 1954-55, first semester) Credit: Three hours
The study of the art of combining melodies and of the various combinations which can be made without losing their individuality as melodies.

304. Form and Analysis.

Credit: Three hours
The analysis of the structural designs of music, song forms, sonata forms, symphony and fugue. Harmonic structure, and stylistic analysis of representative works from various periods, with the application of the formal analysis to the problem of interpretation.

401-402. The History of Music.

Credit: Six hours
A survey of the history of music in western civilization from its inception to the present. The first semester places great emphasis upon the period of the Renaissance and the Baroque. The second semester begins with the Classic period and continues to the present. Prerequisite, Music 101 or 102.
101-102. Expression. (Drawing and Painting)

This course stresses pictorial expression in drawing and in painting. Drawing problems of a subjective nature and abstract composition will help students begin to understand line, form and color. Studies from nature and from the human figure will heighten the student perception of the use of these forms as expressive material.

THE BARNES FOUNDATION COURSES IN ART

A limited number of students of Lincoln University have the privilege of enrolling for courses in Art at the Barnes Foundation at Merion, Pennsylvania.

The Barnes Foundation was founded by Dr. Albert C. Barnes and chartered as an educational institution by the state of Pennsylvania on December 4, 1922.

Its equipment consists of a gallery and other buildings located at Merion in a twelve-acre arboretum containing an extensive collection of rare and specimen trees, shrubs and flowers. The gallery contains a collection of paintings and sculpture which is universally acknowledged to be the most important of its kind in the world. Its more than one thousand paintings include works by Renoir, Cezanne, Manet, Degas, Seurat, Picasso, Matisse and other modern painters down to Soutine, Modigliani, Miro, Rouault, Glackens, Prendergast, Demuth, Pippin, etc. Among the old masters are paintings by Giorgione, Titian, Tintoretto, Paolo, Veronese, El Greco, Claude le Lorrain, Daumier, Delacroix, Courbet and Corot, as well as the work of the early Dutch painters, Italian, Flemish, German and French primitives and some of the more important Chinese and Persian works of art. Included also are representative pieces of ancient Greek, Egyptian and Indian art, and a collection of primitive Negro sculpture which is unrivaled in the world.

Exhibited with these paintings and sculpture pieces is a comprehensive assemblage of antique furniture and of early handwrought iron, telling a continuous story of original ideas and good craftsmanship throughout the ages. All of these objects—paintings, sculpture, furniture, ironwork—serve to demonstrate the continuity of the respective traditions and show how the creative artists of each era achieved work expressive of their own time and of the individuality of the artist.

The record of the Foundation's research in art and education is contained in the nine volumes written by members of the Foundation's staff.

The Foundation's educational program is based upon John Dewey's conception that education is another name for meeting the practical problems of life, one of which is the significance of art. Education, as indeed all intelligent human activities, results from the interaction of an individual and his environment: the individual and the world are engaged in a constantly developing situation. This interaction, and this only, results in genuine experience—an environment which affects the individual and which in turn is affected by him. From experience arises culture, that is, the constant expansion of the range and accuracy of the perceptions which the individual obtains from the varied contacts with life. Education, thus carried out by scientific method, develops initiative, inventiveness, and the ability of the individual to re-adapt himself to the constantly changing situation which is life.

Basic factors of this educational program are:

1. The appreciation of works of art requires organized effort and systematic study, on the same principle that it requires effort and study to become a lawyer, an engineer or a physician. Art appreciation can no more be absorbed by aimless wandering in galleries than surgery can be learned by casual visits to a hospital.

2. Art is not a phase of life apart from the workaday world, to which one may turn in moments of leisure, or perhaps in the name of "culture" or in a spirit of worship. In the Foundation's courses, art is taken out of its usually detached, esoteric world and is linked up with life itself, because all the qualities which give art its value are those which are found in various phases of everyday life, and art has value only because it expresses those qualities. In other words, "art is a fragment of life presented to us enriched in feeling by means of the creative spirit of the artist."

3. There is no essential difference between the great art of the past and the great art of the present: in both forms, competent study will reveal certain well-recognized traditions. The object of the Foundation is not to defend the work of any particular school or work of art, but to provide for impartial and scientific study of the plastic art of all periods, and to show the continuity of the traditions of great art throughout its history.

The program of the Foundation requires organized study and systematic work done under the direction of its staff of experienced teachers. The members of the Lincoln University class are required to attend regularly, take an active part in the work, and do all designated reading.

The Barnes Foundation is not a public gallery. It is an educational institution with a program for systematic work, organized into classes and conducted by a staff of experienced teachers. Admission to the gallery is restricted to students enrolled in the classes.

Lincoln students wishing to enroll in the class may apply to the Dean of the College.

ART

The Foundation offers to Lincoln University students two courses, each covering one year of work in art education. Plans for courses beyond these provisions are being contemplated by The Foundation.

PHILOSOPHY
Mrs. Beardsley

The work of the philosophy department is designed primarily to help students think more reflectively and more critically about a wide range of fundamental questions. To this end, the courses provide an acquaintance with significant philosophic answers to these questions, and give opportunities for students to work toward finding their own answers. Since philosophic questions may arise in connection with any aspect of human knowledge, it is hoped that students majoring in all fields will elect and take active part in courses of philosophy. Majors in philosophy are required to complete 24 semester hours in approved courses.

201-202. Introduction to Philosophy.
(Given each year) Credit: Six hours

The work of the first semester includes a study of reliable and unreliable methods of attaining knowledge, and a study of some basic philosophic problems concerning the nature of man and his status in the universe. Leading world-views are examined.

During the second semester, the student is introduced to the various special branches of philosophy, such as ethics, aesthetics, social philosophy, and philosophy of science. An attempt is made to help students see relationships between these philosophic fields and their other college courses.

203. General Logic.
(Given each year) Credit: Three hours

A study of the basic problems governing clear and correct thinking, with emphasis on the practical application of these principles to the students' own problems in reading and writing. Elementary work in semantics, deductive (traditional) logic, and inductive logic is covered by the course.

204. Ethics.
(Given each year) Credit: Three hours

Problems of ethics, and important classic and contemporary solutions to these problems are studied. The aim of the course is to help students think more adequately about ethical problems, as these arise in both personal and social contexts.

206. Elementary Symbolic Logic.
Credit: Three hours

An elementary study of formal systems, which introduces the student to the deductive system of truth-functions, the analysis of general propositions, and the calculus of classes.

301. Greek Philosophy.
Credit: Three hours

A study of important ancient philosophers. Primary emphasis is placed on the works of Plato and Aristotle; but some attention is given to other Greek thinkers.
302. Modern Philosophy.
Credit: Three hours
The history of Western philosophic thought from the Renaissance into the nineteenth century. The course surveys the rise and development of many concepts and beliefs that are part of the intellectual framework of our own period.

303. Twentieth Century Philosophy.
(Given in 1954-55)
Credit: Three hours
After an initial survey of some nineteenth century developments, the students study certain leading philosophers of the present century. Particular emphasis is given to the work of Bergson, Dewey, Russell, and Whitehead.

304. American Philosophy.
Credit: Three hours
A chronological study of the chief American philosophers. Connections between philosophy and other aspects of American thought and culture are also investigated.

305. Philosophy of Religion.
(Given in 1954-55)
Credit: Three hours
An introduction to the discipline of philosophy of religion. Philosophic positions, such as theism, deism, nationalism, pantheism and existentialism, are studied. Basic problems concerning the relations between God, man, and the world, and concerning the nature of religious knowledge, are explored.

306. Philosophy of History.
Credit: Three hours
A survey of significant theories concerning causal factors in social change, the existence and structure of patterns in history, and the nature of historical knowledge. The views of such thinkers as Carlyle, Hegel, Marx, Spengler, Toynbee, and Collingwood are considered.

309. Philosophy of Science.
Credit: Three hours
A study of scientific methods, presuppositions, and concepts. A number of philosophic problems arising in connection with the growth of the natural and social sciences are examined.

310. Philosophic Ideas in Literature.
Credit: Three hours
A study of some of the important philosophic ideas of our time that have found expression in major works of literature.

312. Aesthetics.
Credit: Three hours
The exploration of certain problems that arise in describing and criticizing works of art. Attention is given to materials drawn from literature, music, and the fine arts.

402. Special Unit in Philosophy.

Selected philosophic problems and texts are studied on an advanced level, in a seminar or special reading course. Materials used will vary with the interest and background of the students. Admission is by special permission of the instructor.

The following courses have also been included among recent departmental offerings in philosophy:

Problems of Modern Philosophy.
(Given in 1952-53)
Credit: Three hours

Theory of Knowledge.
(Given in 1952-53)
Credit: Three hours

Plato.
(Given in 1951-52)
Credit: Three hours

Philosophy in Goethe's Faust.
(Given in 1952-53)
Credit: Two hours

Plotinus.
(Given in 1950-51)
Credit: Two hours

RELIGION
Mr. Yaker

The main objective of the department is to educate the student in the Christian faith and tradition by offering basic training in the Bible as the primary Christian textbook and in its historical background. The course would broaden his acquaintance with both historic and contemporary moulders of Christian thought and practice and help him to interpret the Christian's relation to social and personal problems. An endeavor would also be made to acquaint the student with the various religious philosophies current in the present-day life, with the psychology of religious experience and the institutions that give expression to religious convictions, and also with other religions of the world and the cultures which they represent.

In addition to the following courses, majors in religion are requested to take additional courses in related fields. Students should consult the professor for instructions regarding preferred related subjects.

101. Religion of the Old Testament. (Required)
Credit: Three hours

The religious history of the Hebrews from 2000 B.C. to the Christian era, with special emphasis on conceptions of God and human obligations.

Division II

THE NATURAL SCIENCES

MATHEMATICS

THE 3-2 ENGINEERING PLAN

Messrs. Grim, Cole, Rudd, Gaskins, Hall, Frankowsky, Snead, Carney, Mapp
McIntosh, Rasmussen

The Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics comprises the courses in biology, chemistry, physics, and mathematics.

The courses in the separate departments of the Division of the Natural Sciences and Mathematics are designed primarily to give professional training to men selecting a particular department for their major study and to furnish the more limited technical training required by students whose major study is in another department. In addition, men wishing to obtain a purely cultural survey of any of the natural sciences may, with the permission of the instructor, omit the laboratory work of the elementary courses in the field. Such men will be eligible for credit for the lecture work only and may not take advanced courses in the field without making up the elementary laboratory work. Furthermore, such a course taken without laboratory work is not acceptable for the fulfillment of the requirement for a course in Natural Science.

BIOLOGY

Messrs. Grim, Hall, Snead, Mapp

101-102. General Biology.

Given each year

Credit: Eight hours

A course in biology introducing the student to the structure, physiology and classification of life forms. Prerequisite to all the subsequent courses. Two hours lecture and two hours laboratory.

201-202. Mammalian Anatomy and the Comparative Anatomy of Vertebrates.

Given each year

Credit: Eight hours

During the first semester this course studies the gross anatomy of mammals, using the cat as material for dissection. During the second semester the comparative anatomy of vertebrates is presented with special reference to the dogfish, perch, mud-puppy, turtle, bird, and man. Two hours lecture and two hours laboratory.

203-204. Botany.

Credit: Eight hours

A course devoted to the study of general structures and physiology of plant life, the fundamental histories of the plant groups, with the identification of local flora by the use of the key. Two hours lecture and one hour laboratory.
301-302. Embryology and Histology.
(Given each year)
Credit: Four hours
A course in chordate embryology comparative in the study of blastula-tion, gastrulation and organogeny. Two hours lecture and two hours laboratory.
The course in Embryology is followed during the second semester of alternate years by Courses 302 and 304.

205. Microbiology.
Credit: Four hours
A course devoted to the classification and physiology of typical microorganisms important in disease, agriculture, and sanitation. Two hours lecture and two hours laboratory.

303. Parasitology.
(Given each year)
Credit: Six hours
A course devoted to the consideration of mammalian parasites found in the protozoan, helminth and arthropod groups. Careful consideration is given to life history, control and treatment for the members of the above groups. Four hours lecture and two hours laboratory.

304. Genetics.
Credit: Four hours
A study of fundamental genetics that includes the mechanics and physiology of inheritance with simple problems in dominance, hybrid and sex ratios, back-crossing, linkage, and crossing over. Two hours lecture and two hours laboratory.

305-306. Histology.
(Given each year)
Credit: Four hours
A course in normal mammalian histology. One hour lecture and one hour laboratory.

(Given each year)
Credit: Six hours
A course mainly histological, but including some of the techniques for parasitology, protozoology and blood work. One hour lecture and two hours laboratory.

309-310. Physiology.
(Given each year)
Credit: Six hours
A survey in general human physiology to meet especially the needs of pre-medical students. Two hours lecture and one hour laboratory.

CHEMISTRY
Messrs. Rudd and Gaskins

The instruction in chemistry includes eight hours in General Chemistry, the basic course, followed by twenty-four hours of advanced work. A major in chemistry consists of the following courses: Chemistry 101-2, 201-2, 203-4, 301-2, Physics 101-2, and Mathematics through the Calculus. A student planning to elect chemistry as a major should consult the Department early in his college career in order that his course of study may be properly planned.
101-102. General Chemistry.
(Given each year)
Credit: Eight hours
The course in General Chemistry aims to present the basic principles of the science and sufficient descriptive work to show the importance of chemistry to modern society and to lay an adequate foundation for advanced work. The latter part of the laboratory work for the second semester is devoted largely to qualitative analysis. It is recommended that this course be preceded or accompanied by Mathematics 101.
Three hours lecture and recitation; two periods (four clock hours) laboratory.

(Given each year)
Credit: Eight hours
This is a year course devoted to the study of principles underlying analytical procedures. Emphasis is placed upon the application of principles of equilibrium. The laboratory work is entirely quantitative and, during the first semester, is devoted to the several types of volumetric analyses. The laboratory work of the second semester includes simple gravimetric determinations, quantitative separations, electrodeposition, and colorimetry.
The first semester may be counted as a half course by students not majoring in chemistry.
Three hours lecture and recitation and two periods (four clock hours) laboratory.
Prerequisites: Chemistry 101-2, Mathematics 101.

203-204. Organic Chemistry.
(Given each year)
Credit: Eight hours
The principal classes of aliphatic, aromatic, and heterocyclic compounds are studied. Three hours lecture and recitation, two periods (four clock hours) laboratory.
Prerequisites: Chemistry 101-102.

301-302. Physical Chemistry.
(Given each year)
Credit: Eight hours
The following topics are treated during the first semester: Elementary principles of thermodynamics; the properties of gases, liquids, and solids; the properties of dilute solutions; thermo-chemistry. In the second semester are treated chemical equilibria, equilibrium between phases and applications of the Phase Rule, reaction velocity and catalysis, electrolytic conductance, electromotive force, ion activities, and colloids. Three hours lecture and recitation, two periods (four clock hours) laboratory.
Prerequisites: Chemistry 201-2, 203-4, Physics 101-2, and Mathematics through the Calculus.

PHYSICS AND ASTRONOMY
Mr. Cole
Physics 101-102 is the basic course. Students electing this course should have had, or also elect, Mathematics 101-102. Ordinarily not more than two advanced courses will be given in any one semester. Students planning to elect advanced courses should consult the instructor in advance.

101-102. General Physics.
(Given each year) Credit: Eight hours
Elective for all classes. First semester, Mechanics and Heat. Second semester, Electricity, Sound, and Light. Two hours lecture and two hours laboratory.

201. Light.
Credit: Four hours
Optical theory, geometrical optics, properties of waves, interference, diffraction, and polarization. Three hours lecture and one hour laboratory.

202. Sound.
Credit: Four hours
Nature of sound, physical basis of music and speech, interference, diffraction. Three hours lecture and one hour laboratory.

301-302. Electricity and Magnetism.
Credit: Eight hours
Gauss's theorem, potential, electric and magnetic fields, direct and alternating currents.

Credit: Six hours
A problem course open to Juniors and Seniors who have a knowledge of differential and integral calculus. The topics studied include moments of inertia, central forces, friction, impact, and statics. Three hours lecture.

305. Elementary Astronomy.
Credit: Three hours
A course in descriptive astronomy, illustrated by lantern slides and by the use of the telescope for observation of the heavens. Three hours lecture.

306. Photography.
Credit: Three hours
An elementary course in the theory and practice of photography. Two hours lecture and one hour laboratory.

MATHEMATICS

Messrs. Frankowsky, Cole, and Carney

The courses in the department of mathematics are designed primarily to fulfill the needs of a major in the field.

The major requirement in mathematics consists of twenty-four hours in courses beyond Mathematics 103-104. A maximum of six hours of this instruction may be in a related field. Students majoring in mathematics are advised to take at least one year of physics and a course in logic.

All majors in mathematics are required to follow what is considered the "Basic Sequence." This sequence consists of the courses Mathematics 103-104, 201-202, 305, and must be taken in this order. Under no circumstances will a student be admitted into any course unless its prerequisites are attained.

Students in the Physical and Chemical sciences should elect Mathematics 306 or 402 after the completion of Mathematics 305 if they feel the need for further instruction in the field.

All majors in mathematics and students in the Engineering program must consult their advisor prior to registering for any course beyond the basic sequence.

MATHEMATICS
Messrs. Frankowsky, Carney

A course designed for students who have not taken the subject in preparatory school, or who need review work in algebra. The course covers the following: the fundamental operations of the algebra; factoring and fractions; the theory of exponents and radicals; functions and their graphs; the theory of linear and quadratic equations.

103. College Algebra.
Solutions of quadratic equations and systems of quadratic equations; ratio, proportion and variation; progressions; the binomial theorem; introduction to the theory of equations, remainder theorem, factor theorem, synthetic division, rational roots of an equation; permutations, combinations and probability; determinants.

Prerequisite: Two years of high school mathematics or Intermediate Algebra.

104. Plane Trigonometry.
Measure of angles; trigonometric functions and their graphs, logarithms and exponential functions; radian measure; trigonometric identities and equations; solution of triangles; inverse functions; De Moivre's Theorem.

*201. Analytic Geometry. Prerequisite: Mathematics 103-104.
Rectangular coordinates; straight line; circle; the conic sections; rigid motions of the plane; curve tracing in rectangular and polar coordinates.

*202. Calculus I.
Introduction to the basic concepts of the calculus; functions and limits, continuity, and the definition of the derivative for functions of a single variable; the derivatives of the elementary functions. Applications to rate problems and maxima and minima; differentials; curvature, radius and circle of curvature.

*305. Calculus II.
Integration as the inverse of differentiation; integration of the elementary functions; the constant of integration and simple differential equations; the integral as the limit of a sum; approximate integration. Applications of integration are made to plane and surface areas, volumes, length of a curve, centroids, moment of area, work and fluid pressure.

*306. Calculus III.
This is an intermediate course in the calculus and is designed as a transition course from the elementary to the advanced calculus.
Rolle's Theorem; Theorem of the Mean Value and its applications; series and expansion of functions in series; solid analytic geometry; partial differentiation, multiple integration and their applications.

*401. Advanced Algebra.
An extended treatment is given to the following topics of the College Algebra: inequalities, partial fractions, mathematical induction, the binomial theorem, permutations, combinations and probability, and determinants. In addition, the following topics are covered: The Euclid Algorithm and its applications; symmetric functions; elements of the theory of matrices and of groups.

*404. Theory of Equations.
The complex number system; the fundamental theorem of the algebra; transformations; rational roots; Newton's method for integral roots; reciprocal equations; the cubic and quartic equations; the theorems of Sturm and Budan; numerical approximations to the roots; resultants, discriminants, and elimination; Graeffe's method.

*402. Differential Equations.
An elementary course in ordinary differential equations with applications to Geometry and Physics.

THE 3-2 ENGINEERING PLAN
Lincoln University has entered into an agreement with Lafayette College, Easton, Pennsylvania, to provide engineering training.
This plan provides for three years of study at Lincoln University where liberal arts subjects are taken along with pre-engineering courses in mathematics, science and related subjects. The last two years are spent at Lafayette College where the engineering requirements are completed.
At the end of five years, the student receives both a bachelor's degree from Lincoln University and an engineering degree from Lafayette. The disadvantages of specialization inherent in a four year engineering education are greatly minimized by such an arrangement.
Courses available through this arrangement are: Administrative Engineering, Civil Engineering, Chemical Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Metallurgical Engineering and Mining Engineering.

101-102. Graphics.  Credit: Six hours

201. Geology.  Credit: Three hours
An introduction to physical geology with emphasis on its practical applications.

For further information write to: The Registrar, Lincoln University, Lincoln University, Pennsylvania.
The Division of the Social Sciences includes the courses in Economics, Sociology, History, Political Science, Psychology, Education and Physical Education.

Messrs. Foster, MacRae, Rivero, Jones, Lukaczer, Cornwell, Schatz, Washington, Gardner, Bryant, Hunter, Ross

BUSINESS AND ECONOMICS

Messrs. Schatz, Washington, Morrow

Requirements for an Economics major: Completion of 21 hours in Economics in addition to the basic course, Economics 101-102; completion of Economics 205-206 and Sociology 403.

Business:

203-204. Bank Practice.

(Given) Credit: Six hours

This course aims to review the field of commercial banking from the viewpoints of the directors, the stockholders, the management and the customer. Principle and detail are both given consideration. The items of a bank statement are analyzed. Procedures incidental to each item are discussed and examined.

(Given) Credit: Six hours

The course is intended to acquaint students of the social sciences with the basic problems of accounting theory and practice. Emphasis is placed upon journalizing and posting, adjusting and closing entries, and the preparation of financial statements from the work sheet.

207. Personal Finance.

(Given alternate years) Credit: Three hours

The purpose of this course is to acquaint the student with the principles and practices of personal money management. Among the topics considered are: Budgeting, bank accounts (savings and checking), uses of life insurance and annuities, different forms of investments, problems of home ownership, taxes, and wills.

(Given) Credit: Six hours

This course aims to prepare the student for study in the special fields of accounting, and to give a knowledge of business principles. The organization and dissolution partnerships and corporations, depreciation, source and application of funds, funds and reserves, realization and liquidation will be studied. Prerequisite Accounting 205-206.

(Given) Credit: Six hours

Management problems are discussed as pertaining to policy, organiza-
Economics:

101-102. Elementary Economics.
(Given each year)
Credit: Three hours

A general survey of the principles of economics and their application to current economics problems. No prerequisite.

103. American Economic History.
(Given each year)
Credit: Three hours

A survey of the economic development of the United States from the colonial period to the present. The course is designed not only to examine the growth of American economic life, but also to impart a fuller understanding of the general history of the United States, to provide a background for the study of economic principles and problems, and to cast light on current economic trends and policies. No prerequisite.

201. Price and Distribution Theory.
(Given each year)
Credit: Three hours

A study of the allocation of economic resources and the distribution of income by the price system. The course includes: an examination of the functions of the price system; an analysis of various market situations, including pure competition, pure monopoly, monopolistic competition and oligopoly; an examination of contemporary theory and theoretical controversy on the determination of wages, interest, rent, and profit. This course should be taken by all students who expect to major in economics immediately after economics 101-102. Prerequisite: economics 101-102.

(Given alternate years)
Credit: Three hours

An examination of the relationship between economic life and the federal government. The course examines: the general nature of the relations between the government and the economy; government and agriculture; monopoly, free enterprise, and anti-trust activities; the nature and regulation of public utilities; government ownership, operation, conservation and planning; cooperatives; and other selected topics. Prerequisite: economics 101 or permission of the instructor.

204. Labor Economics.
(Given alternate years)
Credit: Three hours

This course deals with the theory of labor relations as well as with the problems of wages and working conditions, trends in trade unionism, and labor legislation. Prerequisite: economics 101 or permission of the instructor.
301. International Trade.
(Given alternate years)
Credit: Three hours
Development of international trade since the Mercantilists; theory of international trade; imperialism; free trade and protectionism. Prerequisite: economics 101-102.

(Given alternate years)
Credit: Three hours
A study of theory and recent experience in international finance and of contemporary international economic problems. The course examines currency standards, exchange rates and fluctuations, exchange controls, international banking, and contemporary problems. Prerequisite: economics 301.

(Given alternate years)
Credit: Three hours
An analysis of cyclical fluctuations in national income. The course includes: a study of economic data pertaining to business cycles; an examination of the structure and use of the national income accounts; a study of the forces causing fluctuations in the levels of income, employment, production, and prices; a critical examination of leading theories of the business cycle and of proposed remedies. Prerequisite: economics 101-102.

304. Advanced Price Theory.
This course examines contemporary price theory at an advanced undergraduate level.

305. Corporation Finance.
Credit: Three hours
Organization of corporations; types of securities; recapitalizations, reorganizations, and combinations; government control of security issues and trading. Prerequisite: Economics 101. Offered in alternate years.

(Given alternate years)
Credit: Three hours
A comparison of the theory and operation of capitalist, socialist, communist, fascist, and mixed economies. Prerequisite: economics 101.

308. Development of Economically Under-developed Areas.
(Given alternate years)
Credit: Three hours
The course examines the economic status of under-developed areas, the causes of economic development, and the problems and difficulties involved. The relations between these areas and the industrialized countries are discussed. The problems of colonial areas, the United States Point IV program, and the effects of development in the under-developed areas on the economies of the industrial nations are included. The course also examines deliberate planning to hasten industrialization and compares socialist and capitalist methods of development in these areas. Prerequisite: economics 101-102.
309. Public Finance.
   (Given alternate years) Credit: Three hours
   A survey of federal, state and local taxation, expenditures, and debt management. Prerequisite: economics 101-102.

310. Money and Banking.
   (Given alternate years) Credit: Three hours
   An examination of the financial organization of our economy. The course examines the nature of money and credit; the role of commercial banks and other financial institutions; central banking and the Federal Reserve System; monetary policy as a means of economic stabilization; modern monetary theory. Prerequisite: economics 101-102.

401. History of Economic Thought.
   (Given alternate years) Credit: Three hours
   The course analyzes the development of economic thought from the Old Testament to contemporary theory. It aims to help develop a deeper understanding of current economic theory and theoretical controversy, as well as current economic problems. Prerequisite: economics 101-102.

   (Given intermittently) Credit: Three hours
   An examination of special topics in economic theory, for advanced students in economics. Content of the course will vary with the interests of the students.

403. Seminar in Economics.
   (Given alternate years) Credit: Three hours
   Independent study of special topics in economics, for advanced students.

SOCIOMETRY
Messrs. Foster, Bryant, Ross

201. Introduction to Sociology.
   (Given each year) Credit: Three hours
   This course deals with the basic facts of social life: heredity and environment, imitation and inhibition, social groups and institutions, communities, social change and disorganization.

202. Race Relations.
   Credit: Three hours
   A study of the race problem in the world with special emphasis upon race relations in the United States. Outlines, collateral reading, discussions, and term papers constitute the method of instruction.
*203. Anthropology
   (Given each year)
   Credit: Three hours
   A study of primitive society by means of a text-book, collateral reading, term papers, and artifacts.

   Credit: Six hours
   An introduction to the basic factors underlying population problems throughout the world. Special emphasis is placed upon new world population problems. Although collateral reading and textbooks are employed, the major emphasis is placed upon discussions and term papers.

208. Criminology.
   Credit: Three hours
   The course deals with the social aspects of crime and punishment, with special emphasis on the problems of crime prosecution. Prerequisite: Sociology 201.

   Credit: Three hours
   This course covers the major areas of social disorganization in the contemporary world scene. Due attention is given to the underlying historical and psychological factors involved. The chief emphasis of the course is placed upon present day American maladjustments in the following areas: race relations, employment, education, health, housing, crime and delinquency.

   Credit: Three hours
   The course deals with the problems of relief and public assistance to underprivileged groups, special attention being given to the social consequences of economic depression and of war. Prerequisite:
   Sociology 201.

   Credit: Six hours
   A study of the use of case methods in social research, and social work illustrated by elemental practice in case methods. The method of instruction consists of the use of textbooks, analysis of representative case types, collateral reading, discussion, and practical applications.

*401. Contemporary Social Theory.
   Credit: Three hours
   The course includes a brief sketch of basic social theory in ancient times and the middle ages. Upon this background is placed a more detailed analysis of modern and contemporary social theory covering all of the social sciences. The chief idea is to integrate the social disciplines through their several underlying approaches, techniques, and dominant theories.

402. Statistical Methods.
Credit: Three hours

A general introduction to the instruments and techniques of research in education and the social sciences. The student is helped to develop skill in interpreting statistical data as they occur in education and the social sciences. The major emphasis is placed upon the development of skill in the use of the various statistical measures and their application.

*403-404. Survey Techniques.
Credit: Six hours

A detailed study of the principles and methods of conducting surveys, an analysis of some representative surveys, and a few applications of survey principles.

HISTORY

Messrs. Bond, Jones, Morrow

Requirements for a History major: Completion of 24 hours in history in addition to History 101-102. This must include History Seminar 401-402. Of the remaining 18 hours, six may be chosen from among the following courses: Philosophy 306—Philosophy of History; Political Science 303-304—History of American Political Thought; Political Science 301—American Constitutional Law; Sociology 203—Anthropology.

In addition to the above requirements, History majors are advised to take a minimum of six hours in related Social Science courses.

(Given each year) Credit: Six hours

The first semester covers the period 1500-1815, the development of Europe from the close of the Middle Ages to the Congress of Vienna. The second semester covers the period from 1815 to the present. This course is open to Freshmen, and is a prerequisite for all other history courses.

(Given alternate years) Credit: Six hours

The first semester covers the development of organized societies with particular emphasis upon Egypt, Babylonia, Persia, and Greece. The second semester covers the rise and fall of the Roman state. Prerequisite: History 101-102.
203-204. The Negro in the Old and New Worlds. Credit: Six hours

The first semester traces the history of Africa and surveys social, economic, and political institutions of the continent. The second semester is devoted to a study of the adjustments of persons of African descent in the New World—South America, the Caribbean, Central America, and North America.

*301-302. Medieval Civilization. Credit: Six hours

(Given alternate years)

The first semester deals with the decline of Rome and the evolution of medieval society, emphasizing the basic characteristics of feudalism and the cultural life of Europe to 1200 A.D. The second semester covers the transition from mediaeval to modern society in Europe. Prerequisite: History 101-102.

*303-304. History of the United States and Pennsylvania. Credit: Six hours

(Given each year)

In the first semester the period from the first explorations to 1865 is covered, with emphasis on the following topics: the expansion of Europe in the 16th century, the life in the colonies, the growth of American political institutions, and the sectional conflict. The second semester covers the period from 1865 to the present. Prerequisite: History 101-102.

305-306. Social and Economic History of England: Credit: Six hours

(Given alternate years)

The course traces the growth of economic life from Anglo-Saxon times to the present, against a background of the political and social developments. Enrollment limited. Special permission of the instructor is required.

308. History of the Far East. Credit: Three hours

*401-402. History Seminar. Credit: Six hours

(Given alternate years)

For history majors. Special emphasis on techniques of historical research, through assignment of research problems. Prerequisite: a minimum of 12 hours in history.

POLITICAL SCIENCE

Mr. Lukaczer

Requirements for major: 24 semester hours beyond Political Science 101. Six semester hours may be taken in related fields upon consultation with major professor. Political Science 101 is a prerequisite for other political science courses unless exceptions are made by the Political Science Department.
101. American (Popular) Government.
(Given each semester)

Credit: Three hours

This is a survey course designed to give a general understanding of our governmental system (federal, state, and local) and to give a basis for critical judgment of our political institutions. Topics covered include the origin and nature of our constitutional system, civil rights, the practical workings of politics, and the administrative services and problems of the national government.

102. International Politics.

Credit: Three hours

This course outlines the basic factors in world politics, and analyzes the factors leading from the first World War to the second, including the peace of Versailles, the League of Nations, disarmament, reparations, the Peace of Europe, international economic problems, the great depression, and the collapse of collective security. It is especially concerned with analyzing the social dynamics of the great powers, with the political and economic conduct of World War II, with world reconstruction and the United Nations.

201-202. Foreign Governments.

Credit: Six hours

During the first semester the British, French, German, Italian, and Russian governmental systems are examined. During the second semester emphasis is placed on the governments of the Far East and particularly of Southeast Asia including Japan, China, India, Pakistan, and Indonesia. The method of study is historical, cultural, comparative and analytical. The course is also concerned with the theoretical concepts of the various types of government studied.

301. American Constitutional Law.

Credit: Three hours

This course deals with the interpretation of the Constitution by the Federal courts. The case method will be used. Lectures will be concerned with the historical and legal significance of the cases.

302. Public Control of Labor.

Credit: Three hours

An examination of the major acts of legislation which define the area of public control. Special emphasis is given to the anti-trust laws, the National Labor Relations Act, the Norris-LaGuardia Act, the Wagner Act and the Taft-Hartley amendments; the areas of picketing, boycott, strike and secondary action are also considered.

303-304. The History of American Political Thought.

Credit: Six hours

This course is a survey of main currents in American thought, mainly political, from Governor Winthrop, John Cotton, and Roger Williams, to Franklin D. Roosevelt. Especially recommended for students of American Literature, History, Economics and Social Theory, and Philosophy.
This course will place the emphasis on national administration. It will treat the relationships of administration to the legislature, the executive, and the courts. Control and coordination within administration will be of main interest. Here the course will deal with the personnel and fiscal management, the structure and organization of the administration, the relationship of administration to groups, administrative regionalization, and Federal-state administrative relations. Of interest to all students of the social sciences.

307. Political Parties and Public Opinion.

The topics studied will include electoral problems and techniques; the history, organization, and function of political parties; an analysis of machines, pressure groups, etc.; problems of political behavior; and an analysis of public opinion, including methods of measuring public opinion, its creation, its manipulation, its role in a democratic government, etc.

401-402. Political Theory.

During the first semester the course traces the development of political thought from ancient times to the French Revolution; during the second semester the course includes political thought since the French Revolution, among others, Bolshevism, Communism, Socialism, and Fascism.

405. Federalism.

This course deals with the problems of federal government in the United States. Topics covered will include the theory of federalism, interstate trade barriers, the position of the state in our system, States Rights, the role of associations, interstate cooperation, cooperative administration, federal-city relations, recapture tax techniques, grant-in-aid techniques, the role of the courts in the federal sphere; State, interstate and federal tax relations.

407. Selected Problems in Political Economy.

The term "political economy" in the course title is used in its older sense of a discipline intimately related to the science and art of government. The course will attempt to identify and integrate the outlook of the political scientist and economist with respect to a number of national governmental issues including: price support for agricultural commodities, adequate medical care for Americans, public housing, tariff policy with particular reference to reciprocal trade agreements, and public power. Consideration will be given to the Federal Government's present role in a particular field; how that came about; the proposals advanced for changing this role; the background of these proposals; the relationship of the Federal Executive, Congress, Congressional committees, pressure groups, and the public in the working out of an acceptable legislative solution; and the relative political strength of the forces involved. General considerations on the political and economic sides relevant to appropriate solutions will be identified.

To be conducted as a seminar. Prerequisite: Economics 201-202 in addition to Political Science 101.

*408. Government and Economic Planning. Credit: Three hours

This course develops the factors which have led to the assumption by major national governments of the function of central economic planning and analyzes the nature of the planning organization, its place in the governmental structure, and the techniques used, with particular reference to the United States and Great Britain. The problems encountered in economic planning, including the need for giving adequate consideration to the impact on other policy objectives and the limitations imposed on economic policy by the political framework within which it must operate, will be illustrated by studying intensively one or two specific subject areas.

To be conducted as a seminar. Prerequisite: Economics 201-202 in addition to Political Science 101.

EDUCATION

Messrs. MacRae, Foster, Cornwell

The courses in education aim, in general, to acquaint the student with the principles governing the growth of personality, with the role of education in the process of civilization; and in particular to meet the formal requirements of the various states for certification to teach in the secondary field.

201. Introduction to Education. Credit: Three hours

An overview of the aims, organization and procedures of education to provide a systematic view of the whole field. Information regarding the opportunities and requirements in education as a profession. General education for all students and professional orientation for prospective teachers. Open to Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors.

202. Educational Psychology. Credit: Three hours

An introduction to the principles of psychology as involved in the field of formal education. Also a survey of the laws of learning motivation and personality development.

204. General Methods in Secondary Education. Credit: Three hours

The method of the teacher in the high school; class room management; instructional materials; the guidance of the learning experience. Open to Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors.
CATALOGUE NUMBER

301. Tests and Measurements.

Study of representative tests in the secondary field with practice in selecting and administering them. Use of measures of central tendency and variability in interpreting tests. Open to Juniors and Seniors.

302. Statistical Methods in Education.

A general introduction to the instruments and techniques of research in education and social science. The student is helped to develop ability to understand and interpret articles, reports, and other material involving statistical data. Open to Juniors and Seniors.

401-402. Practice Teaching.

This course aims to review important theories and practices in secondary education resulting from recent experimental research; to prepare the students for a period of practice teaching in cooperating high schools; and to supervise and direct an actual teaching experience in such schools. Open to Seniors.

403. Philosophy of Education.

The philosophical foundations of educational method. A study of the three viewpoints basic to the major philosophical positions in American education. Open to Juniors and Seniors.

PSYCHOLOGY

Mr. Cornwell

The courses in psychology are designed to offer (1) a broad understanding of the principles of human behavior, (2) training of the pre-professional student in techniques of human relations as applied in the major professional and vocational fields, and (3) a well-rounded orientation in systematic, experimental, and clinical psychology for students planning graduate study in this field.

Three hours in General Psychology are prerequisite for all psychology majors. For a major, 24 semester hours in addition to General Psychology are required. Six of these hours may be accepted from the following interdepartmental courses: Education 301-302; Philosophy 203; Sociology 203, 403, 305-306.

201. General Psychology.

An introductory study of general psychology designed to prepare for more advanced work in the subject.

203. The Psychology of Adjustment.

A theoretical and clinical study of mental and personality adjustments in the process of development. Prerequisite: 201.
204. Mental Hygiene.
Credit: Three hours

An intensive study of the principles and procedures involved in the maintenance and rehabilitation of mental health. An autobiographical self-analysis and evaluation is required from each student as a term project. Prerequisite: 201, 203.

205. Applied Psychology.
Credit: Three hours

A comprehensive survey of the application of the principles of psychology in various occupational fields. Particular emphasis is given to the application of these principles in the fields of Education, Medicine, Law and Criminology, and Industry. Lectures, demonstrations, practical observations and reports, with collateral readings from psychological writings constitute the chief procedures in this course. Prerequisite: 201.

206. Experimental Methods.
Credit: Three hours

A survey of experimental methods employed in psychological research on learning, memory, thinking, perception, and sensation. Prerequisite: 201, 205.

301. Social Psychology.
Credit: Three hours

An intensive study of the principles of psychology in group relationships, including a survey of the techniques of prediction and control in group behavior. Prerequisite: 201, 205.

302. Contemporary Schools of Psychology.
Credit: Three hours

A survey of points of view in a selected sampling of schools of psychology. The course aims at the understanding of the principles underlying these various schools and the current application of these principles in broad fields of human activity. Prerequisite: 201, 203.

303. Abnormal Psychology.
Credit: Three hours

A study of distortions of behavior resulting from disturbances and disorders in the mental and emotional aspects of human personality. Prerequisite: 201.

306. Quantitative Methods.
Credit: Three hours

An introduction to the psychophysical methods of quantifying and scaling psychological data. Projects calling for the application of the methods of reproduction, equal intervals, paired comparison, rank order, and rating scale methods, are assigned for group completion. Prerequisite: 201, 205, 206 or 302.
All instruction and related activities in the fields of Health, Physical Education, and Hygiene are administered by the Physical Education Department. A medical examination is required of all students. The Health Service advises with the Department of Physical Education in the assignment of students to activities in accord with their physical needs. All undergraduates are required to take Freshman and Sophomore physical education. A passing grade is necessary for a degree.

The department advises majors to elect Biology 101-102, Anatomy 201, Psychology 201, and special courses in Education. A laboratory fee of $15.00 is charged for Physical Education 301-302, and $6.00 for Physical Education 205-206.

103A-B. Freshman Physical Education.
(Given each year)
Credit: Two hours
Instruction and practice in the fundamental skills of team games, individual activities and lectures in hygiene.

104A-B. Sophomore Physical Education.
(Given each year)
Credit: Two hours
Instruction and practice in team games and individual activities leading to a satisfactory demonstration of skills in and knowledge of at least two team games, one combative and one individual activity.

201. Introduction to and History of Physical Education.

This course considers the place of athletics in modern American life. Concrete suggestions and directions for the conduct of athletics in various institutions at different levels are considered.
GENERAL REGULATIONS CONCERNING THE COURSES OF STUDY

Election of Courses

Before making a final choice of courses, all students should consult the instructor in charge of their major study, and in case of any doubt, the instructors in charge of particular courses as well. Electives should be chosen in accord with the plan suggested by the major study and in keeping with the cultural interests of the student. Care must be exercised to avoid conflicts between mutually exclusive examination groups.

Attention should also be given to the following regulations:

1. No credit will be given for any course unless it is properly scheduled in the office and recorded at the beginning of the semester.

2. If for any reason a student drops a course without obtaining the consent of the instructor and the Dean of the College, he will be marked 5 in that course.

3. A student may be dropped from a course at any time upon recommendation of the instructor and with the consent of the Dean of the College. The grade in such cases will be determined by the special nature of the case.

4. If a student is compelled to withdraw or drop courses because of illness or conditions beyond his control, he will be marked withdrawn.

5. A student may not absent himself from a term examination without a written permit from the Dean of Men. Upon presentation of such a permit a student is allowed to take the examination at a later date without fee. If he fails to take it then, he must either repeat the course or lose credit. A student who absents himself without procuring a permit, will be marked 5.

6. No student may take less than four courses in any semester, nor more than five courses, without the consent of his adviser and of the Dean of the College.

7. Changes may be made in the selection of electives up to and including the fourth calendar day after the beginning of the semester. Thereafter changes may be made only with the approval of the Dean of the College.

8. Students transferring to the College Department of Lincoln University will be held to the requirements for the degree. They will not be exempt from the major in which at least twelve hours must be taken at Lincoln University, nor from the laboratory science and its prerequisites or the requirement in foreign language. No exceptions will be granted to these regulations save by vote of the Faculty upon recommendation of the Committee on Admissions.
CATALOGUE NUMBER

REQUIREMENTS FOR MAJOR STUDIES

1. Students will confer with the major supervisor (usually the departmental head or the division chairman) during their fourth semester in college.

2. Application to major must be in writing on cards provided by the College Registrar. The program of courses for remaining semesters, approved by the major supervisor, as counting specifically toward the major, must be listed on these cards.

3. The normal load expected for a qualifying major is twenty-four semester hours. (above the basic course)

4. At the discretion of the major supervisor, a maximum of six hours of work, taken in related fields, may be credited toward the major.

5. Responsibility for filing credentials as a major rests solely with the student.

6. Once accepted as a departmental major, a student has a right to remain as a major in the same department so long as he continues in college.

7. A student may change his departmental major only with the consent of the Dean of the College.

8. Student candidates may be rejected by any department for scholastic reasons only.

9. The average necessary for consideration as, and completion of, a departmental major, must not be less than "third group" in the major. Exceptions to this scholastic average may be made only with the consent of the Dean of the College.

10. Major supervisors shall merely advise students regarding elective courses. The elective privileges of the student should not be abridged.

11. Students shall consult their major supervisors during the last two weeks of each semester in college. The purpose of such consultation is that of reviewing, carefully, the student's program of courses.

12. Comprehensive examinations in the major, for Seniors only, shall be held during the week preceding the final examination period. These examinations may be written or oral, or both.

13. The passing grade in the comprehensive examination is Group III.

14. Examinations should be subjective and objective, or subjective only.

15. Candidates who fail may, with permission of the major supervisor, be re-examined at a date later than Commencement of the current year.

16. A special fee of $5.00, payable to the College, will be charged for this re-examination.

Regulations for the Control of Absences

Lincoln University uses the class method of teaching rather than the tutorial system. The class system of teaching assumes that each student has something to contribute to and something to get from a class. It further assumes that there is much more instruction absorbed in the classroom than can be tested on examinations. Therefore:

(1) Students are expected to extend all regularly scheduled class meetings, and should exhibit good faith in this regard.

(2) It is not sufficient for a student to merely pass the examinations which are conducted in course.

(3) The instructor in each course will make whatever regulation regarding absences he sees fit, in order to guarantee the satisfactory conduct of that course. A knowledge of these regulations should be made clear to all students at the beginning of each semester. All controls are subject to the general regulations of the College Faculty and should be filed with the Dean of the College.

Chapel Attendance

University week-day assemblies are held Tuesday and Thursday, from 10:00 to 10:30 a.m. The exercises are devotional and informative in character. For each semester Freshmen may have six absences, Sophomores, ten, Juniors, fifteen, and Seniors, twenty.

Lincoln University is an institution devoted to the spiritual elevation of its students. Attendance upon the regular exercises held each Sunday is therefore expected. This policy was confirmed in May, 1947, by mutual agreement between representatives of the student body, faculty, and trustees.

The minimum required attendance is 50% of the stated Sunday Chapel exercises during the student's residence at Lincoln, reckoned each semester. Students delinquent in attendance will be placed on probation until any deficiency is removed.

Non-cooperation in the matter of Sunday Chapel attendance will be interpreted by the Faculty as evidence that the student is unwilling to maintain the quality of participation in the University's community life that is essential to the best interests of the University. Non-cooperation, therefore, may be deemed by the Faculty as sufficient ground for dismissal or for the withholding of the degree.

The Faculty is prepared to make mutually satisfactory arrangements for those students whose religious adherence precludes participation in Protestant Christian Worship.

Examinations

Two series of stated examinations are held each year, one, the mid-year examinations, in January, and the other, the final examinations, in May.

Special examinations are held as soon as possible after the beginning of each semester. They are open to students who have received special permission for absences from examinations from the Dean of Students.

Mid-semester tests are held during each semester. These are primarily for the sake of general guidance and assist both the student and the teacher in determining the general progress achieved at this mid-way point of the term.

Grades, Credit, and Advancement

The student's performance in a course is rated according to the following grades: 1, excellent; 2, good; 3, fair or average; 4, poor; and 5, failure. The mark Incomplete is given only when the student has obtained in advance, permission of the instructor to postpone for a short time the submission of certain outstanding work which must be turned in before a specific grade can be reported. Under the regulations of the Faculty, outstanding work that is not completed within three weeks after the end of the semester automatically becomes a 5.

It is suggested that the distribution of students according to groups should be as follows: Group 1, not more than 10 per cent of the class; Group 2, not more than 20 per cent; and Group 3, not more than 50 per cent.

The general group standing of a student and consequently his rank in his class, is determined by multiplying the numerical grade reported for each course by the number of hours per week the course is given, and then dividing the sum of the products by the sum of the multipliers. The quotient will indicate the general group of the student in question. The limit for the first general group is 1.30; for the second general group, 2.20; for the third general group, 3.20; and for the fourth general group, 4.20.

When the semester closes the grades made are entered on the records, and will not be altered nor recomputed because of any work the student may complete subsequent to the semester in question.

The Freshmen and Sophomores constitute the lower classes; the Juniors and Seniors the upper. No Freshman will be advanced to the Sophomore class until he has passed his assigned work in physical education, and satisfied all entrance deficiencies. At the end of the Sophomore year the record of all students will be carefully examined, and only those who have a general average of group 3 and who show promise of future development will be advanced to the upper classes.

Classification of Students

Students are classified as follows:

Freshmen: those who have completed 27 semester hours or less.

Sophomores: those who have completed more than 27 semester hours, but less than 60 semester hours.

Juniors: those who have completed 60 semester hours, but less than 90 semester hours.

Seniors: those who have completed more than 90 semester hours.

Unclassified: students who have transferred from other colleges, but whose advanced credit has not yet been evaluated; and students who are pursuing studies at the University, but are not candidates for a degree.

Probation and Dismissal

It is not the policy of Lincoln University to cooperate with students after it has become evident that they are either unwilling or unable to maintain reasonable standards of work.

Students who fail as many as three courses in any semester with three different instructors are not allowed to continue. The failures leading to this dismissal must amount to 50 per cent of the student's total load. This rule will apply to freshmen at the end of their second semester of residence only.

If failures cumulate twenty semester hours the student is not allowed to continue.

Students who receive a grade of general group 4 in their courses at the close of any semester are placed on probation. If they do not show improvement during the following semester they may be required to withdraw from the University.
REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE AWARDING OF THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF ARTS

The courses required of all candidates for the degree are:

- English .................................................. 12 semester hours
- English Bible ........................................... 6 hours
- Natural Science or Mathematics ......................... 6 hours
- Economics, History, Political Science, Sociology .... 6 hours
- Physical Education (103-104) .......................... 4 hours
- One Foreign Language ................................. 12 hours
  (At least one year beyond the elementary year taken either in preparatory school or college.)

All other work is elective, but must include a major subject of 24 semester hours exclusive of the basic course. Department chairmen may at their discretion add or subtract 6 semester hours. Work taken during the Freshman year does not count toward the major.

Each candidate for graduation must complete not less than 124 semester hours, exclusive of Physical Exercise, with a general group standing of not less than 3.20. The work is to be spread over a period of eight semesters, during each of which a minimum of 12 hours must be successfully completed.

Upon the satisfactory completion of these requirements, the student is recommended by the Faculty to the Trustees of Lincoln University for the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Diplomas are issued only at the June Commencement. A student may complete the requirements at the end of either semester.

The degree is conferred \textit{magna cum laude} on all who complete the requirements with a grade of Group 1; \textit{cum laude} on all in Group 2.

GENERAL STATEMENT REGARDING FEES, SCHOLARSHIPS, AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING PAYMENT

\textbf{Fees}

\textbf{FOR STUDENTS EACH HALF YEAR}

The Laboratory Breakage Deposit is assessed for students taking one or more Laboratory courses. The balance is refundable following the close of each school year.

The Dormitory Student Deposit is assessed for all resident students, and is held as a reserve against damage to University property. The balance is refundable after graduation or after withdrawal from school.

Part-time students are charged at the rate of $12.00 per semester hour. Regular students are charged the same rate for each semester hour in excess of eighteen.

A $25.00 room deposit is required of new students. This deposit should be mailed as soon as admission to the college has been granted. Old students, who must deposit $15.00 for room reservations, should send this deposit by July 1. Room deposits are not refundable.

All bills are payable in full, at the beginning of each semester. No student will be permitted to attend classes or engage in any University activity until all financial arrangements are satisfactorily completed.

As a convenience for those who may be unable to pay the full bill at the beginning of each semester, the University extends to students or their parents the opportunity of paying tuition and other college fees in installments during the college year. Under this arrangement a first installment is required at the time of registration for each semester. The minimum amount of the first installment is $150.00 for all students. The balance of the bill is subject to a $5.00 service charge. The schedule for payment dates under this arrangement is as follows:

In case of absence from the University for six weeks or more, due to illness, withdrawal, or any other reason, there will be a proportionate refund or reduction in the charge for board, provided that notice is given to the Business Manager at the time of withdrawal.

Students remaining at the University during vacations will be charged an amount to cover the cost of room and board.

All remittances should be made payable to "The Lincoln University" and sent to the Business Manager.

The University reserves the right to change the charges for room and board at the end of any month in order to meet the actual cost of these services.

No student will be recommended to the Trustees for the degree until the charges agreed upon have been met, and his library card cleared.

All resident students board in the University Dining Hall, unless written permission to make other arrangements is obtained from the Dean of Students.

The College buildings used as dormitories accommodate about five hundred students. Each room is provided with the essential articles of furniture, such as desks, chairs, table, bed, mattress, and pillows. Each student must bring with him three pillow cases, four sheets for single beds, sufficient blankets and towels, all marked with the full name of the student. The buildings are heated from the central heating plant, are lighted by electricity, and have bath and toilet conveniences. Necessary repairs are made by the University, but all additional work is at the expense of those who occupy the rooms.

No changes in the electrical wiring of dormitory rooms may be made, and no additions to the electrical fixtures (such as electric irons, larger bulbs, etc.) may be installed or used except by permission of the Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds. Request for such permission must be made in writing, and if the permission is granted, the necessary electrical work must be done by an electrician designated by the University. Violation of this regulation will result in the confiscation of all such added fixtures.

The operation of radios in dormitory rooms is limited to persons who obtain permission from the Business Manager, and who agree to conform to the regulations governing their use.
Dormitory rooms must not be redecorated nor may any structural changes be made therein except by permission of the Superintendent.

Officials of the University or their duly designated representatives have the right to inspect at any time, any of the rooms occupied by students.

For the convenience and protection of students while in residence the University Office maintains a student deposit account, where money for personal or incidental expenses may be deposited to be drawn upon as occasion requires.

SELF-HELP AND SCHOLARSHIP AID

The Lincoln University does not undertake to guarantee employment to students, and does not encourage any to enter who are without adequate resources. The aim is to furnish a higher education at a minimum expense to all worthy students. There is a limited number of opportunities for students to assist themselves doing such work as waiting on the table in the University dining hall, assisting in the Library, and acting as janitors in the halls and dormitories or on the grounds. Further information concerning such employment may be had upon application to the Business Manager.

The College department has a scholarship fund of limited amount, the income from which is expended exclusively in partial payment of the tuition of needy and deserving students of good deportment and diligent application. It is not expected that those whose circumstances admit the full payment of bills will apply for assistance. The University desires to encourage those who are obliged to secure an education largely through their own efforts, and is ready at any time to co-operate with worthy men who are willing to do their part in industry, self-sacrifice, and frugality. All correspondence concerning scholarship aid should be directed to the Dean of the College.

The College grants full tuition scholarships to qualified candidates nominated by members of the State Senate of Pennsylvania. Pennsylvania students who make acceptable grades in the annual competitive tests given by the University, are recommended to their respective Senators for such scholarships.

All recipients of these scholarships must be residents of Pennsylvania and must meet the college entrance requirements. After admission, they are required to maintain in the College a satisfactory standard of conduct and scholarship.

These scholarships provide only for tuition, and do not include other fees, room, or board.

Freshman Scholarships

Any student, who has reached his senior year in an approved high school, may take, under the supervision of an officer of the university, certain standard tests selected by the university.
These tests are administered during the month of March or of April. Scholarships will be awarded to students who rank in the first quartile of the contestants. To that student who ranks highest, one full-expense scholarship may be given for one year. For further information, write to the Dean of the College. Scholarships may be forfeited at any time during the year because of negligence or misconduct. If a student fails in any semester to achieve a grade at least of general Group 3, any scholarship allowance for that semester will be forfeited, unless the Committee on Scholarship Aid continues the aid.

Work Credit

Earnings of a student assigned work to help defray his expenses, may be paid in cash or credited to his account monthly upon satisfactory completion of his assigned task. Ordinarily, work credit has no cash or refund value if not applied toward school expenses.

PRIZES

The following prizes are offered annually for proficiency in the work of the departments indicated:

English and Public Speaking

The Elizabeth H. Train Memorial Prizes in Oratory, given in 1919 by the Rev. William P. Finney, D.D., in memory of Elizabeth H. Train, award fifteen dollars to the best speaker, and ten dollars to the next best in a public Sophomore oratorical contest. The Class of 1899 Prize, an award of ten dollars in money or books to that member of the Senior Class who shall pass a creditable examination in English studies and shall write the best essay on some assigned topic. The Class of 1900 Prize, an award of ten dollars to that student who in the judgment of the Faculty has acquitted himself most creditably in the intercollegiate debates. The Kappa Alpha Psi Prizes in Oratory, given by Epsilon, the local chapter, award annually a silver loving cup to the best speaker, and a gold medal to the next best, in a Freshman oratorical contest. The Charles Garnett Lee Memorial Prize in English, given by members of the family in memory of Charles Garnett Lee of Baltimore, Maryland. This prize is awarded annually to that student who, in addition to maintaining a satisfactory record in his general scholarship, has achieved excellence in the English Studies or in Creative Writing.

Natural Science

The Bradley Prize of a gold medal is awarded to that member of the Senior Class who has maintained the highest average standing in selected branches of physical science.
The S. Leroy Morris Memorial Prize in Biology, endowed in 1937 by Mrs. Amaza Morris Lockett, Atlantic City, N. J., in memory of her father, S. Leroy Morris, M.D., of the class of 1892, awards ten dollars to that member of the Senior Class who has maintained the highest average standing in the courses in Biology.

The William S. Quinland, Jr., Memorial Prize in Biology, given by William S. Quinland, M.D., Nashville, Tennessee, in memory of his son, William S. Quinland, Jr., awards ten dollars to that pre-medical student of the graduating class who possesses initiative and marked proficiency in Biology, and who stands second in honors in this subject.

The Walter F. Jerrick Prize, an award of twenty-five dollars limited to that student in the graduating class who shows the most improvement in scholarship during his four years at Lincoln University.

Music

The William S. Quinland, Jr., Memorial Prize in Music, given by Mrs. Sadie W. Quinland, B.S., City School Teacher, Nashville, Tennessee, in memory of her son, William S. Quinland, Jr., class of 1944, awards ten dollars to that student in the graduating class with a general rating not less than Group 2, and who has distinguished himself in the playing of orchestral instruments, preferably the brasses.

Prizes for Scholarship Standing

The Class of 1915 Prize, given by the members of that class, awards the interest of one hundred dollars, on the recommendation of the Faculty Committee on Athletics, to that student of the graduating class of the odd years, who has best combined athletic distinction and scholarship standing.

The Class of 1916 Prize, given by the members of that class, awards the interest of one hundred and twenty-five dollars, on the recommendation of the Faculty Committee on Athletics, to that student of the graduating class of the even years, who has best combined athletic distinction and scholarship standing.

THE SAMUEL ROBINSON SCHOLARSHIPS. The income from a gift of Mr. Samuel Robinson is paid out annually as scholarships in sums from fifty dollars to one hundred dollars, or more, to needy and worthy students who have memorized and recited correctly from memory the answers to the 107 questions in the Westminster Shorter Catechism.

THE AMY L. JOHNSON AWARD, to that student of the College who has shown the most improvement in personality and scholarship during the last three full years of residence at the institution.

THE HENRY W. B. CAMPBELL AWARD is given by Mrs. Campbell in memory of her husband who graduated from the College in 1903 and the Seminary in 1906, to that student in the graduating class who best combines the qualities of scholarship and Christian character.

THE ROHM AND HAAS FELLOWSHIP. A grant of $2,100.00 to a member of the senior class, to assist him in continuing his studies in graduate or professional school. A special committee appointed by the president selects the recipient of this award.

THE INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETIC PROGRAM

Objectives

1. The objectives of the program of intercollegiate athletics are the development of health, good sportsmanship, group loyalty and wholesome living among the greatest possible number of the student body.

2. Intercollegiate Athletics are regarded as an essential part of the educational program of the institution and are therefore subject to Faculty control and regulation.

Student Participation in Athletics

1. All varsity sports conducted or supported by the University shall be considered major sports.

2. The Committee on Eligibility and Academic Standing shall be the final authority on questions regarding eligibility for athletic competition.

3. No student may compete in two varsity sports simultaneously unless he receives permission from the Dean of Instruction and the University Physician.

Financial Assistance for Athletes

1. Participants in intercollegiate athletics must meet the same standards of academic performance, economic need, and leadership qualities that are required of all other students in order to qualify for, receive, or retain financial assistance.

2. Financial assistance to athletes may be rendered only by the College Committee on Scholarships.

GENERAL REGULATIONS CONCERNING CONDUCT

THE STUDENT SENATE, organized in 1946, is a committee from the student body. It cooperates with the University Committee on Student Personnel in the handling of all matters of student government except those which are purely academic or which affect living arrangements controlled by the administration or the faculty.

All students are required to conform to the following regulations:

General Conduct

1. The use, possession, or transportation of intoxicating liquors on the grounds or in the buildings of the University is prohibited.

2. As a safeguard against the hazard of fire, and in the interest of sanitary living conditions, all smoking within buildings is to be confined to the dormitories. This means that smoking is prohibited in the classrooms and the hallways of University Hall, the Science Hall, the Library, the Chapel, the Gymnasium, the Little Theatre, and the Music Studio.

3. The use or possession of firearms on University property is prohibited.

4. Hazing is a detriment to the welfare of students; especially does it handicap new students in making satisfactory adjustments to College life; it is therefore prohibited.

5. The University reserves the right (under the By-laws of Lincoln University, ch. vi., Sect. 12, adopted by the Board of Trustees, June 1, 1909) to dismiss or suspend at any time, students whose conduct or academic standing it regards as undesirable, even though no charges be brought against them; in such cases the fees due or already paid to the University will be neither refunded nor remitted in whole or in part.

University regulations are brought to the attention of every student by posting, announcement, or inclusion in the catalogue. Violation of regulations will not be excused on the plea of ignorance of information.

Visitors

6. Individual students will be held responsible for the conduct of all visitors they may have in the dormitories.

If male visitors are to remain overnight, they must be reported beforehand to the office of the Dean of Students.

7. No women are admitted to the dormitories at any time without permission from the Office of the Dean of Students.

Women are not allowed in student rooms. On special occasions when one or more dormitories are definitely open for general University purposes, there will be regulations governing the individual occasion.

As a means of guaranteeing satisfactory housing and recreational facilities, all social events must be planned in collaboration with the Dean of Students.

Usually throughout the year, it is possible to secure accommodations for a limited number of overnight guests in the Guest House. Arrangements should be made in advance.

History of the Seminary

Lincoln University had its origin in the belief of the Rev. John Miller Dickey that the Negro people, here and in Africa, must be supplied with well-educated, thoroughly trained Christian leaders. With this aim in view, Ashmun Institute was authorized under the supervision of the Presbytery of New Castle and was chartered in 1854 to give "academic and theological education to young men of the Negro race," and opened for instruction December 31, 1856.
Ashmun Institute continued its work for nine years, during which theology was taught together with academic studies, and thirty men were trained, twelve of whom were ordained to the ministry. Of these twelve, five became missionaries in Africa.

Ashmun Institute was planned for free Negroes only, since the slaves did not have access to education. But with their emancipation it was recognized that the need for Christian leaders was all the greater, and therefore in 1866 Lincoln University was organized, and in 1867 the Theological Department began with a provisional course of two years, which in a short time was extended to cover the usual three years of theological studies. In 1871 the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America adopted the following action: “RESOLVED, That the General Assembly accept the oversight of the Theological Department of Lincoln University, as provided in the amended charter of that Institution.” (Minutes of General Assembly, 1871, page 581

Aims and Standards

The Seminary seeks to enlist and to train men and women who sincerely desire to dedicate their lives to the high calling of Christian leadership. The program of study is designed to provide a sound, thorough, and practical training for the ministry at home and abroad.

Although the work of Lincoln Seminary has, in the past, been directed primarily to the Negroes in America, it is now completely inter-racial in its student body, its faculty, and in its Board of Trustees. It is committed to the ideal of establishing a non-segregated Church in a non-segregated society. As a part of the ecumenical Church it welcomes students from all countries and all denominations who are interested in entering into true fellowship in the Christian community.

The Theological Seminary of Lincoln University has continued to be under the supervision of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America. There are no denominational tests for entrance, however. The Seminary welcomes students of all denominations and gives to each ample opportunity to study the doctrine and polity of the church of his choice.

The Seminary is a graduate school, and candidates for graduation must have earned previously the A.B. degree or its academic equivalent. The Seminary is an associate member of the American Association of Theological Schools, and advises those planning to enter the Seminary to be guided by the Association’s “Statement on Pre-Seminary Studies.” (Copies of this will be sent upon request.) At the end of the full three-year theological course, successful candidates will be awarded the degree of Bachelor of Divinity.

RELATION TO LINCOLN UNIVERSITY

As a part of the University the Seminary offers to its students all the advantages of participation in the religious and cultural life of the University community. The Seminary student enjoys all the social and religious privileges of the University. The Seminary year is the same as the University year, and the system of grading is the same, i.e., 1, excellent; 2, good; 3, fair or average; 4, poor; and 5, failure.

Many courses in the College of Liberal Arts are open to Seminary students, and may be profitably pursued by qualified men. All such optional work, however, must be approved by the Dean of the Seminary and the Dean of the College.

Seminary students have full access to the University Library. A section of the University Library has been set apart for the special use of Seminary students. This contains standard theological works and reference materials.

STANDARDS OF ADMISSION

In order to be admitted to matriculation and enrollment as a student in the Seminary, the applicant for admission must present to the Dean of the Seminary the following credentials:

1. A letter from the pastor or session of the Church of which he is a member, stating that he is in full communion with the Church, is of good conduct and high character, and that he possesses aptitude for theological study. Or, if an ordained minister, a letter from the church body to which he belongs, stating that he is in good and regular standing.

2. A transcript of his college work, with the certificate that he has received the A.B. degree or its academic equivalent from an accredited college. Those coming from non-accredited schools, or those found deficient in preparation will be enrolled only on probation until they have satisfactorily made up this deficiency.

Students applying for admission should submit with their applications the results of any educational testing done during their college experience (e.g., the Graduate Record Examination). Students who have not had such testing will be required to take such tests during their first year in the Seminary.

3. The payment of a registration fee of $10. If the student is admitted to the Seminary this fee will be credited to his account; if admission is denied, the fee will be returned.

Blank forms for application for admission will be furnished on request by the Dean of the Seminary.

A student who has taken part of the theological course in another standard seminary will be received at the same stage of the course on his presentation of a letter from that seminary certifying to his good standing, stating the courses he has completed, and regularly dismissing him to this seminary. He must also comply with the terms of admission set forth in the preceding paragraphs.

An ordained minister, who has not completed the regular courses of study in a theological seminary, may be admitted to the privileges of the Seminary upon the presentation of credentials from an authorized ecclesiastical body stating that he is in good and regular ministerial standing. The hospitality of the Seminary may also be extended to qualified persons who may desire to pursue special studies. However, no one will be granted the B.D. degree until he fulfills all the requirements prescribed for it.
The requirements for the degree Bachelor of Divinity are as follows:

1. The successful completion of 96 semester hours, distributed among the departments of study in the Seminary as follows: Theological, 18 hours; Historical, 15 hours; Biblical, 24 hours; Practical, 31 hours; Elective, 8 hours.
2. Four semesters of field work, supervised through the Field Work Practicum. This is part of the 31 hours required in the Practical Department.
3. Completion of the course in New Testament Language, or the passing of an equivalent examination.
4. A general average for the entire seminary course of not less than 3.00.

In addition to the foregoing requirements, all students for the ministry of the Presbyterian Church are required to take the course in Old Testament Language.

No credit will be given in any course where the number of unexcused absences totals more than the number of credits given for the course. Absences will be excused by the instructor in the course for weighty reasons only.

No student will be advanced into the Middle or second-year class who has not completed at least 32 semester hours; and no student will be counted a member of the Senior or third-year class who has not completed at least 64 semester hours.

Courses may not be added or dropped without the permission of the Dean of the Seminary.

At the completion of each semester, grades are sent to presbyteries and other ecclesiastical authorities at the request of the student.

All expenses for textbooks, laundry, and personal needs must be met by the students. Students taking less than 8 hours per semester will be charged tuition at the rate of $12 per credit hour.
THE LINCOLN UNIVERSITY BULLETIN

The Seminary is in possession of scholarship funds which have been given for the express purpose of helping approved candidates to secure their education for the ministry of Christian service. Scholarship grants range as high as $600.00, depending on the need of the student. Deserving students may be assured of receiving financial help to supplement their own efforts toward self-support.

PRIZES

THE MISS LAFIE REED PRIZES IN SACRED GEOGRAPHY. The first prize, consisting of ten dollars, is given to that member of the Junior Class who has maintained the highest standing in the study of Old Testament History. The second prize, five dollars, is given to that student of the Junior Class who has established the next highest standing in the same subject.

THE C. MORRIS CAIN PRIZE IN ENGLISH BIBLE. This prize, the income from the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars, is given annually to that student of the Middle Class of the Seminary who shall demonstrate the most comprehensive knowledge of the English Bible.

THE ROBERT H. NASSAU PRIZE. This prize, consisting of the income from the sum of one thousand dollars, is given to that member of the Senior Class whom the Faculty shall select as best exemplifying the ideal of the Theological Seminary of Lincoln University in scholarship and personality. The student selected shall present an essay of not less than 500 words, based on the life and work of the donor, the Rev. Robert Hampill Nassau, M.D., S.T.D., of the West Africa Mission.

PROGRAM OF FIELD WORK

The Seminary requires as an integral part of its training, four semesters of field work, supervised by the Department of Field Work. This practical experience, which is provided under competent guidance, is vital in the development of the student's skill in the application of classroom principles to real life situations.

In addition to field work opportunities during the academic year, students may fulfill the field work requirement by summer field work under the supervision of some denominational or inter-denominational board or agency. This requirement may also be met by serving a year's internship under competent supervision. Students in the Junior Class are strongly advised not to hold regular charges. In cases where the field work is heavy the student may be required to lengthen his seminary course at the discretion of the Faculty.

The services of students under the supervision of the Department of Field Work are open to churches of all denominations. Student workers serve as pastor's assistants, teachers in the church school, leaders of youth groups, group leaders in community centers, and as supply preachers. Churches interested in securing the services of students should address the Department of Field Work. There is no charge for this service except a modest fee to cover the student's expense for travel and meals.

Credit: Three hours

This course is concerned with the development and the administration of a program of Christian education in the local church. It will deal with the organization of the church for effective education, the recruiting and the training of leadership, and co-operation with denominational, inter-denominational, and community agencies in the work of Christian training. (Elective. Given 1953-54, 1955-56.)

364. Special Groups in the Education Program of the Church.

Credit: Three hours

This course is concerned with the development of programs to fit the special needs of young people, young adults, and older adults. It will deal with the needs and the opportunities of these groups in study and service in the local church. (Elective. Given 1954-55.)

365-366. The Church and the Community.

Credit: Four hours

This course seeks to acquaint the student with society as it is, a network of human organizations, and to explain the nature, the structure, and the process of its development. It proposes to teach the Christian minister how to make a thorough diagnosis of his field before undertaking to prescribe for the cure of ills he discovers there. It also aims to show the relation of the modern church to the social problems it has to meet in its work-field of social service. (First semester required. Given each year.)

Credit: Three hours

This course will study the application of Christian social ethics to four problems of contemporary life: The Church and the Dispossessed; The Gospel and the Industrial City; The Church and Race; The Outreach of the Church to Non-Churched Groups.

This course, which is open to all Seminary students, is identical with Religion 402 in the College of Liberal Arts. (Elective. Given each year.)

367. Church Music.

Credit: Two hours

A survey of the development of music in the church, with a view to preparing the pastor for leadership in the use and interpretation of hymns in public worship and helping him develop a total program for music in the life of the church. (Required. Given each year.)
