

CONGRATULATIONS MS. ADJOA LOVE-DORSEY!

Ms. Adjoa Love-Dorsey (MSR student) presented at the First Colloquia Series offered by The School of Social Sciences and Behavioral Studies. Ms. Love-Dorsey's presentation was based on her graduate thesis "African American Students' and Elementary School Experiences in the Sciences." Thank you Ms. Love-Dorsey for your dedication and commitment by sharing your research with Lincoln University's undergraduate students! You make your graduate family proud!!!

MESSAGE FROM DR. VIVIAN PRICE

We realize that you might have a need to access computers during the day on Saturday. However, we ask that you not interrupt a class to request permission to use a computer or printer. In addition, the adjunct faculty work area is for faculty only and we ask that you not enter it. Please respect their work space! Options are being explored that might better accommodate your need. However, until then, we ask for your cooperation. Please keep in mind that you do have access to the computer labs as follows:

Please note that rooms 438, 440, 448 and 450 are computer classrooms, not drop-in labs! On Saturdays, they are free for general student use only at the following times:

ROOMS 438/440

- Saturday morning until 8:45 am
- Saturday afternoon from 12:20 pm - 1:20 pm
- Saturday afternoon from 4:45 pm - closing

ROOMS 448/450

- Saturday morning until 8:45 am
- Saturday afternoon from 12:25 pm - 12:55 pm
- Saturday afternoon from 4:30 pm - closing

DROP-IN LAB 439

- Saturday until 12:00 noon
- Saturday afternoon from 3:15 pm - closing

Thank you for adhering to this schedule and enabling students assigned to classes in the computer classrooms to be on time for their classes. Thank you in advance for your cooperation!

WOULD YOU LIKE TO BECOME A TUTOR?

The Center for Literacy is looking for volunteer tutors to work with Literacy Corps at The Graduate Center. Our adult learners will benefit from your time commitment of three hours each week. You can tutor in math, reading, or help an adult pass the GED examination.

All Lincoln University students are invited to participate in Literacy Corps. For more information, please contact Ms. Pam Pinder, Program Manager, at 215.485.7006 (cell). Thank you in advance for "Reaching Back" to help others!

Lincoln University's Concert Choir Represented in Premiere Performance of the HBCU National Choir

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY, PA – Lincoln University's Concert Choir had two student representatives participate in the 105 Voices of History, a choir composed of delegates from the 105 Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) throughout the country. The concert was held at The John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C. on Sunday, September 7, 2008.

"Singing As One to Create a National Voice," Britney Freeman, a junior Music major and Khyle Wooten a junior Music Education major, represented Lincoln University in the 105 Voices of History's premiere performance, hosted by Tony Award winning actress Phylicia Rashad. It was the culmination of a six month selection process identifying the most talented music students studying at the nation's 105 Historically Black Colleges and Universities.

Ms. Freeman and Mr. Wooten received an all expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. for three days of intensive rehearsal with leading college choral conductors. The event gave these students an opportunity to showcase their talent in an internationally renowned performance venue and allowed them to begin to build networks with other music professionals.

"I am really grateful that my professors chose me for something like this," said the Bass 2 performer, Wooten. "It was great being exposed to those who are masters in the craft, virtuosos in every sense of the word. Not only were we honoring a legacy but, we were looking toward the future."

Alto contributor, Freeman said, "The end product was gratifying. It was nice to be able to see the best and perform at such a high standard."

These exceptional students were accompanied by their voice teacher and the Lincoln University Interim Concert Choir Conductor, Albert R. Lee. Mr. Lee represented the Visual and Performing Arts Department at the First National HBCU Conductors Summit. "To be a part of the celebration of the Historically Black Colleges and University's contribution to American culture was indeed an honor," said Lee. "The talented music students at Lincoln University must have an opportunity to participate in this event well into the future."

The "105 Voices of History" is a HBCU Choir National Initiative created to promote diversity in America's national venues for the Arts. It provides a national platform to increase the exposure of all HBCUs to diverse audiences and its many constituents, from corporate America to the youngest students, who will be attracted by the choir's performances to pursue higher education. The national choir also provides a forum for the conductors and partners to share knowledge and collaborate on ideas for program development among their colleges/universities. Congrats Britney and Khyle!
