Message From The President

While the University continues to produce leaders to shape this new millennium, Lincoln is at a critical point in its 148-year history. State aid slides as operating costs climb. Competition to attract and retain the best students, faculty and staff is steep. More alumni and other private donors are needed.

In these pages of the Lincoln Lion, we make the case that greater financial support is required to advance the Lincoln Legacy of excellence. We recently honored over 400 of our students for exemplary academic achievement. The work is going forward to enhance the campus’ deteriorating infrastructure. We are creating new and dynamic academic opportunities for our students and faculty.

Your gift is an investment in our students’ success! I urge you to fill out the enclosed donor’s envelope and make your tax-deductible contribution today. Please be generous.

...Hailing Our Promise & Our Future...

Lincoln University, which has earned a national reputation for its distinguished role in higher education, recently recognized about 400 undergraduates for their high academic achievements.
Lincoln Initiates New Academic Programs and Campus Improvement Projects

On Feb. 16, 2002, President Ivory V. Nelson presented his Report on the University to the Board of Trustees. Here is a summary of that report.

2001-2002 Commonwealth Budget Resolution: In anticipation of a revenue shortfall of $622 million at the end of this fiscal year, Pennsylvania Gov. Mark Schweiker has placed a spending freeze on 2001-2002 Nonpreferred Appropriations. Institutions affected by the budgetary reserve are Lincoln, Penn State, University of Pittsburgh, Temple, Drexel, University of Pennsylvania, MCP Hahnemann University and Thomas Jefferson Universities.

The 1% freeze announced on Oct. 3, 2001, coupled with an additional 2% freeze imposed on Jan. 18, 2002, would amount to a $388,000 shortfall in Lincoln’s June 2002 payment from the Commonwealth. That would be the reduction if it is determined that the state must retain the funds placed in budgetary reserve.

Lincoln’s budget presentations before the Senate and House Appropriation Committees were on Feb. 26. The Senate Appropriation Committee, for the first time, held a joint hearing of the four state-related universities (Lincoln, Penn State, Temple and Pittsburgh). Each institution was given an opportunity to present its budget request and respond to questions.

Commonwealth Department of the Auditor General: The Independent Auditor’s Report for the year ended June 30, 2000 found no cases of expenditures that were inconsistent with the appropriation. The department also found that Lincoln has satisfied requirements of prior audit findings and recommendations.

Department of General Services (DGS) Update: John Thompson, Lincoln’s director of Physical Plant, met with DGS representatives on Dec. 17, 2001 and again on Jan. 23, 2002, to discuss the status of the Commonwealth’s $29.4 capital improvement projects for Lincoln. At the Dec. 17 meeting, it was indicated that the DGS design group is working on the domestic water, and sanitary and waste treatment as the coordinating group. The project planning groups had not shared information nor had a comparison of construction design cost been conducted to ascertain the best approach to the projects.

Thompson has suggested that the best option may be to construct a tunnel system down the heart of the main campus with branch lines running to the specific buildings. The DGS coordinating firm was asked to conduct a study.

The January meeting included the complete DGS team and an update by the design firm of Remington & Vernick on the status of the projects. Studies on cost comparisons for tunnels versus excavation had still not been conducted. DGS has expressed its dissatisfaction with the progress of the projects and asked for a report to include a production timeline.

Once the various infrastructure systems are upgraded, Lincoln will consider more upgrades to its building systems. Here is the tentative project schedule:

Feb. 2002: Preliminary Submission
June 2002: Final Submission
Nov. 2002: Bid Award
Oct. 2003: Project Completion

Academic Programs

Lincoln-Barnes Partnership: The Lincoln-Barnes Partnership was initiated on Jan. 24, 2002, when ceramics students traveled to the Foundation for the first of four lecture tours. Students will focus on ceramic art forms and influences on contemporary works.

The Partnership with the Barnes Foundation also provides training in botany for biology majors. At the Barnes, students will receive an overview of plant structure and function, botanical classification and nomenclature, and plant evolutionary history. In addition, the extensive variety of specimens in the arboretum allows for hands-on experience with structural features and identification.

On Jan. 28, biology majors went to the Barnes for a lecture on plant systems and evolution plus a tour of the grounds. Students saw a variety of trees, shrubs and other plants, some native to this country and many transplanted from other continents.

The second phase of the Barnes-Lincoln Partnership is the initiation of a Summer Internship Program, which will sponsor two summer internships, one for an art student and another for a botany student. The target for initiating this phase is summer 2002, but not later than summer 2003.

Communications: The English Communications Program prepares students for careers in mass media, especially television. Students majoring in English-Communications must complete five required courses in English, 11 required courses in communications, and two electives in communications. Since the program was established in the fall of 1987, about 50 Lincoln students have graduated with a bachelor of science degree in English-Communications. The number of majors in the program has remained consistent at about 40 students. It is fully housed on Lincoln’s campus with its own first-class television studio.

The new Lincoln Television Studio officially opened in September 2001. It
The Alumni Association of Lincoln University (AALU), under its new leadership, is in a growth mode. It is time for us to take the AALU to the next level in chapter development, Association activities, and in the assistance we provide to our Alma Mater in reaching its goals.

The entire AALU membership – from the executive committee, to the alumni trustees, to the chapter presidents, to the committee chairs, to individual alumni members, has a responsibility to make this Association work.

As a national organization, we must work together to help the AALU become stronger. On a team, each individual has his or her own unique talents, skills and abilities that, if pulled together in an organized and strategic manner, would bring us a set of desired results. The desired result for the AALU is growth – meaning growth from three chapters to at least 20 in the next four years. This would increase the number of Lincoln students who come to our Alma Mater due to OUR collective efforts in recruitment. It also would mean further growth in the number of dues-paying alumni to 1,000 over the next four years.

All of us are needed to get the job done. My motto is “It’s a New Day.” It’s a new day in the life of this Association and we must all WORK in a manner that is conducive to our growth. When we chose to attend Lincoln, we also chose to earn our degree and be committed to supporting Lincoln’s future. That commitment lies in our strength and our strength lies in our numbers. In essence, what one of us could do alone, 6,000 of us could do better together!

We must motivate ourselves to become active members through local chapters, return to campus for Homecoming and Class Reunions, and feel “ownership” again in the future of our Alma Mater. Think about the time you spent on this campus: whether the experiences were positive, negative or combinations of both. Think about the fact that the time you spent in this venerable institution was a learning experience, whether you enjoyed the lessons learned or not, you earned a degree.

Since last May, the newly elected leadership of the AALU has: a) broadened communications with University leadership to help ensure that we develop plans that will benefit the University as it attempts to reach its goals in fund raising, student recruitment, and positive public relations b) created two new alumni chapters in Chicago and Washington, DC. We are in conversations with alumni in other areas to begin new chapters.

I encourage alumni to think about putting some of your efforts into helping us to become stronger through the creation of new chapters. I challenge each of us to rededicate ourselves to the Association, make Lincoln a priority, give back to Lincoln annually, and pay our dues.

Excellence is expected and distinction is our goal. To find out how to start a chapter in your area, please click the “Alumni Connections” link at www.lincoln.edu. Hope to hear from YOU soon. Lisa M.B. Johnson ’85 (AKA Lisa M. Bacon), President; AALU, E-Mail: AALUPrez@aol.com

From the Desk of the Executive Secretary

“A great minds discuss ideas, average minds discuss events, small minds discuss people.” -- Admiral H. Rickover

Let’s go directly to the Great minds and discuss the ideas that Lincoln University stands for. Lincoln is the oldest Historically Black University in America. The University is the grantor of the most degrees in science for African-Americans. It graduated 7% of African-American physics majors in the U.S. in 1999. Lincoln lists great statesmen, physicians, lawyers, educators, entrepreneurs, sociologists, psychologists, science researchers and pioneering master’s degree programs in human services and education. This is something that we all know! Now is the time to continue to support our Alma Mater.

Please support the Alumni Association by paying your annual dues of $35.00 now.

serves as the training ground for students to learn television production and film editing. With the opening of the studio, communications students can take television production courses on campus. In addition to the curriculum, the studio also provides for a Student Services Program.

Currently, the University has two cable channels available for programming. A ribbon cutting ceremony for the studio is planned for April 10, 2002 at 4 p.m.

SAP R/3: The SAP software application was fully installed at Lincoln in November 2001 and was introduced in the spring 2002 business administration curriculum. SAP is integrated into the “Principles of Accounting” course and will be further integrated into the “Investment Portfolio Management” course before the end of the spring semester.

By the end of the 2002 summer session, all economics and business administration (EBA) professors will be given hands-on SAP fundamental applications training. With SAP R/3 knowledge, students will be able to secure internships and subsequent employment opportunities with potential employers that have implemented this enterprising resource-planning tool.

Pre-Law Program: Under the direction of Dr. Judith A.W. Thomas, dean of the School of Social Sciences and Behavioral Studies, a Pre-Law Committee has been convened and has recommended a set of core and recommended courses for the proposed Pre-Law Program. The Committee met in February to officially approve, modify or reject proposed core and recommended Pre-Law courses.

In addition, a representative from the Villanova University School of Law has been meeting with the Pre-Law Committee. The law school is offering its support in the form of:

- Two full scholarships reserved for high-performing Lincoln students
- A Villanova Law School faculty member to teach the “Lincoln Legal Writing” course at the school’s expense
- Villanova faculty available as resources to Lincoln faculty and encouraged to visit Lincoln to speak to classes, participate in programs and judge moot court teams
- Interested Lincoln faculty would be added to the Villanova Law School mailing list and welcomed at faculty colloquia, symposiums, and other events of interest.

LASER Program: Lincoln’s LASER Program is highly regarded and touted as one of the University’s outstanding and first rate science programs. Dr. Robert L. Langley, the program’s director, is hopeful that the Office of Naval Research (ONR) will exercise its two-year renewal option when the current three-year funding cycle ends in May 2002.

However, there is the possibility that ONR will cancel the higher education initiative.

Dr. Langley also said that the Science, Engineering and Mathematics Education Program for Historically Black Colleges and Universities, Minority Institutions, and Tribal Colleges and Universities (HBCU/MI/TCU) Program, which funds the LASER Program, has been targeted for possible termination by ONR.

Technology at Lincoln

Information Technology Strategic Planning: In November and December 2001, representatives of TRE Associates presented four days of information technology strategic planning with senior staff of the University. The sessions resulted in the compilation of a report entitled, Lincoln University Information Technology Strategic and Implementation Plans. It includes recommendations on funding sources, outsourcing and implementation funding. The planning group developed technology goals related to infrastructure, integrated operations, student computer literacy, faculty computer literacy and distance learning.

Faculty Development: Beginning in November 2001, 57 faculty members participated in eight computing workshops in “Outlook for Beginners,” “Advanced Features of Word,” “PowerPoint for Beginners,” and “Advanced Features of PowerPoint.” Faculty workshop evaluations indicated an overwhelmingly positive response to the content and execution of the training sessions. Additional areas of training scheduled for the spring include “Advanced features of Word,” “Outlook and PowerPoint,” “Beginning PowerPoint and Excel,” and the creation of Web pages.

2002 Commencement: The Trustees have approved the nominations of the Committee on Trustees Degrees and Nominations for honorary degree recipients at the May 2002 Commencement. Upon researching the criteria for awarding honorary doctorate degrees, and reviewing past practice at Lincoln, it has been determined that the following honorary doctorate degrees are most appropriate and will be awarded to the recommended recipients:

- Psychology Professor, Florida State University, Na’im Akbar, Ph.D. (Doctor of Humane Letters)
- California Speaker of the House-Elect, State Assemblyman Herb J. Wesson, Jr. ’99 (Doctor of Laws)
- Massachusetts State Supreme Court Justice Roderick Ireland ’66 (Doctor of Laws)
- Lincoln Professor Emeritus and former Athletic Director, Trustee Manuel Rivero, posthumously (Doctor of Humane Letters).

LINCOLN LION  WWW.LINCOLN.EDU  SPRING 2002  5
Dear Alumni:

A couple of months ago, I became director of Alumni Relations. I am a 1995 Lincoln graduate, and I am honored to serve in this capacity. I am also excited about the great potential here at the University.

Lincoln is an institution with a tremendously rich legacy. It is also a university ripe with possibility. My challenge is to help our Alma Mater realize all of its potential. With your assistance, I know that we can accomplish this goal.

Did you know that last year only 303 alumni gave back to Lincoln—just 303 out of a possible 6,000 alumni? Those numbers don’t tell the story. The real story is that Lincoln alumni are committed to seeing their University thrive and succeed, and we are concerned about our University.

Lincoln alumni want to increase that number of 303 to thousands. We are showing our support by making our financial contributions to Lincoln every year.

Also, I want to issue a challenge to alumni who as students were members of various campus organizations: I urge you to take the responsibility for collecting and sending in contributions from at least five members of your organizations before June 30, 2002. Please join me in supporting Lincoln. Together, we can do great things for Lincoln University, which has done so much for us.

I know that we can accomplish this goal.

In 2004, the University will celebrate 150 years of continued existence. With much prayer and support from you, we want to be around for another 150 years. Our mission as Lincoln alumni is to support our Alma Mater in any way necessary.

Contact the offices of the President, Vice President for Development (Michael B. Hill), Alumni Relations (Michael Taylor) or your officers for the Alumni Association to see what YOU can do for our Alma Mater.

Also, please join the Alumni Association. We carry out your wishes as alumni of this illustrious institution and we will be a voice for you. The Association needs at least 400 alumni to pay regular dues of $35, or join the ranks of the Life members at $500 payable over a period of five years. This is a crucial year for the Association. We have an election of all officers and an alumni trustee, plus our new constitution takes effect in May.

I welcome you to be a part of this historic year for the Association. We need your dues support and the university needs your financial and in-kind gifts.

Please take a moment and reflect on your years at Lincoln and where you are now. Think about it: I would say that you owe something in return to our Alma Mater. Please contact the Office of the Executive Secretary at bbenson@voicenet.com, or call 610-284-6975 to see what you can do for YOUR Alumni Association.

Constant and true, I remain,

Bruce M. Benson ’75, Executive Secretary

Profile: Michael C. Taylor, a 1995 Lincoln alumnus and a former associate director of Admissions at the University, has been appointed director of Alumni Relations. He reports to Michael B. Hill, vice president for Development and External Relations.

Since 2000, Taylor had served as director of Admissions for Saint Paul’s College in Lawrenceville, Va (see his column on Page 6 and complete profile at our Website. Click on Lincoln News). As director of Alumni Relations for Lincoln, he is responsible for serving as the key liaison between the University and its alumni.

Moreover, he is responsible for maintaining relations with the Alumni Association as well as assisting the Association in building and revitalizing alumni chapters. He will also play an important role in soliciting alumni support for major fund-raising initiatives such as the Capital Campaign and the Annual Fund.

In addition, he will develop programs that expand alumni participation in Homecoming, Founder’s Day and other annual University events. He rejoined Lincoln’s staff on Jan. 7, 2002.

Starting a chapter...

...requires at least five willing alumni in your area and is as simple as 1-2-3-4-5-6:

- Identify initial chapter leadership
- Define geographical boundaries for the chapter
- Develop Chapter Membership Guidelines
- Develop Chapter Constitution
- Hold an initial meeting
- Conduct a general organizational meeting

Request a copy of the Association’s “Chapter Revitalization Guide” from Executive Secretary Bruce Benson ’75 (610-284-6975 or bbenson@voicenet.com). The Association vice president for your region can help with the rest. For more information, also contact Association President Lisa M.B. Johnson ’85 – (302) 764-7036 E-mail: TYLISAJ@AOL.COM.
Students Receive Awards at 2002 Honors Convocation

In addition, 15 Dean’s Awards were presented. The students, their academic schools and majors are:

School of Humanities
- April M. Jones, Chinese
- Angele M. Kamwa, French
- Judy Montgomery, Studio Art
- Andrea C. Toussaint, English-Education
- Nancy E. Weigel, Religion

Natural Sciences and Mathematics
- Chantal D. Lewis, Biology
- Tod A. Pascal, Chemistry
- Veleka D. Sweeting, Computer Science
- Katrina L. Thompson, Mathematics
- Kathryn L. Wells, Physics

Social Sciences and Behavioral Studies
- Taiwo B. Abimbola, Economics
- Sharon D. Bollers, Banking and Finance
- Oluwabusola S. Dansu, Economics
- April Jones, International Relations
- Angele M. Kamwa, Banking and Finance

Dr. N. Joyce Payne challenges students to use their talents to enhance society.
The Philadelphia Alumni Chapter presented the Frank “Tick” Coleman ’35 Awards to five Lincoln Alumni at a Luncheon, Saturday, April 13, at the Philadelphia Airport Sheraton Hotel.

Honored for their outstanding service and commitment to the University were the Rev. John Parkinson ’51; Alfred (’56) and Allen Shropshire ’56; Thelma Hill ’71; and Dr. Fred S.A. Johnson ’27. Dr. Johnson was honored posthumously. Proceeds supported the Archie Goodwin Memorial Scholarship fund.

Dr. Abdulalim A. Shabazz, Distinguished Professor of Mathematics at Lincoln, has spent another successful year in the classroom helping the University to produce more leaders to shape a new millennium.

A loyal and committed Lincoln supporter, Dr. Shabazz earlier pledged $10,000 to the University. His initial $1,000 payroll deduction was intended to start in fiscal year 2000. However, due to an administrative oversight, his request was not implemented until July 2001.

Ever gracious and generous, Dr. Shabazz also is encouraging the alumni to donate to the University’s $200,000 campaign to refurbish the structure, and restore and reset the stained and decorative glass windows in the Mary Dod Brown Memorial Chapel on campus (see University’s appeal for contributors on page 10).

Alisa R. Drayton, bachelor of science in public affairs, is featured in the Boston College Carroll School of Management MBA recruitment book, on its Web site, and in other marketing materials. A dual-degree candidate, she will graduate in May, earning both the juris doctorate and master of business administration degree. At Lincoln, she served in several leadership positions, including as president of the Student Government Association.

Eric Webb (pen name E.WEBB?!), a syndicated columnist, self-described spoken-word artist, and the author of the National Black Authors Tour bestseller, Love Letters, Death Threats & Suicide Notes, is a new contributor for a Web-based distribution sponsored by the OsirisOne Network (01N.net).

The Honorable James L. Usry ’46, a Lincoln Trustee Emeritus, and former mayor of Atlantic City, N.J., died Jan. 25, 2002. He was 79.

Born in Athens, Ga., his family relocated in his childhood to Atlantic City, where he attended the public schools and received his high school diploma.

“Big Jim,” as Mr. Usry was affectionately known, graduated from Lincoln in 1946 with a bachelor of arts degree in sociology with a minor in physical education. He went on to become a successful school teacher, principal, assistant superintendent, and star professional basketball player with the New York Renaissance, and a coach. He served as the first elected African-American mayor of Atlantic City from 1984 to 1989.

RACING TO GIVE: ADVANCING THE LINCOLN UNIVERSITY LEGACY

The calendar says April, the race is on, and in a few months we will find out which Alumni class comes in first as the top contributing class to the University by the deadline of June 30, 2002, the end of Lincoln’s fiscal year.

Is last year’s winner, the Class of 1961, set to repeat? Will another class show their mettle and place...first? Or...can we count on the classes to give us a photo finish?

Stay tuned for further developments because...the RACE IS ON!

Restoring a part of Lincoln’s History: In October 2001, experts from the Willet Glass Studios of Philadelphia began the delicate task of removing and storing the exquisite but aging stained-glass windows in the more than century-old Brown Memorial Chapel.

Dear Lincoln Alumni:

The Mary Dod Brown Memorial Chapel continues to stand proudly on campus, even though she is in need of a major refurbishment, including window restoration. The stained-glass windows have been removed and temporarily replaced by wooden covers in an effort to preserve the windows and prevent damage to the interior of the Chapel. Currently, the windows are being stored while the Chapel sits almost in darkness. Lincoln University invites your help in restoring the light.

The Chapel has served various roles for the alumni, students, and staff.

“The Mary Dod Brown Chapel enriched my life immeasurably. Its religious services, artistic presentations, and cultural programs deepened my faith, enlarged my vision and burnished my dreams. It defined the meaning of service for me. The Chapel, therefore, holds a special place in my heart.”

--- Rev. LeRoy Patrick ’39, Trustee Emeritus

“The stained-glass windows of the Mary Dod Brown Memorial Chapel make a marked difference on the impression you receive both in and outside the Chapel. While outside, the Chapel stands beautifully overlooking the campus dressed in a rainbow of colors, inside splendid lighting colored by the windows cloaks sanctuary finding all dark places. Certainly, it is a worthwhile endeavor to reset the windows.”

--- Rev. John H. West III ’76, former University Chaplain

There are very few artisans who can perform the delicate task of refurbishing these precious visions; it will cost more than $200,000: $100,000 for general refurbishment, and another $100,000 to restore and reset the windows. Though this is a small price to pay to preserve the Chapel, it would be a large expenditure for the University budget at this time. Please give generously. Donations to the Chapel apply to your class gift as well as the current capital campaign. Both are fully tax-deductible. Please indicate in the memo section of your check or the envelope that your donation is for the Chapel.

You may make your gift outright or pledge and then pay by installment. Lincoln hopes to raise enough funds to restore the windows by the end of this year. For more information, call Lincoln at 610-932-1231.
