

Visit from McCallum School of Business at Bentley University

Anya Gelernt-Dunkle, Graduate Admissions Officer for the McCallum School of Business at Bentley University, visited our department on Thursday, September 9 to inform our students about the Discover Bentley event and the exciting graduate programs offered at the McCallum School of Business. The Discover Bentley event is designed to help fund and recruit underrepresented demographics in the fields of business and finance.

Ms. Gelernt-Dunkle, pictured right, has been visiting our department annually since September, 2019. Since then, nearly a dozen Lincoln students have participated in the Discover Bentley event, with several alumni now enrolled in graduate programs at the McCallum School of Business. Ms. Gelernt-Dunkle's visit was limited to virtual form last year due to Covid, so we were happy to welcome her back in person this year.

Admissions Officers like Ms. Gelernt-Dunkle provide important guidance for our students, many of whom have no friends or family with prior experience dealing with graduate programs and their application processes. We thank Ms. Gelernt-Dunkle for continuing to bring these opportunities to our students. Our department is proud of our recent alumni who are finding success in these programs, and we look forward to maintaining strong ties with the McCallum School of Business in the future.
