You may complete all requirements for your degree using the catalog in effect when you entered the program or any catalog year between when you began and when you graduate. You may not pick and choose requirements from different catalogs or select a catalog year from before you began the program. All courses are not offered every term of every academic year and academic departments are under no obligation to adjust their class schedule to accommodate a change of catalog year. Any changes to a student's catalog year may result in additional, reduced, or updated requirements.
