of Lincoln University*

Laurence Foster, Editor

Introduction

This Alumni Directory of Lincoln University, Pennsylvania, is sponsored by the General Alumni Association of Lincoln University. Its aim is to record the names, whereabouts, occupations, achievements, and position of living sons of Lincoln. By means of this Directory Lincoln men can be drawn closer together in spirit through knowledge of each other. May it be a source of inspiration to its readers.

The General Alumni Association is indebted to, and expresses its profound gratitude to Dr. Laurence Foster, Class of '26, for his painstaking care and patience in the preparation of this volume.

BROOKS, WALTER H., 1872; Clergyman

Born in Richmond, Virginia, August 30, 1851; He attended private schools in Richmond, Va., and Rhode Island, during the latter part of 1865 and the early part of 1866. His entire school-life embraced only eight years, with one literary degree, A.B., from Lincoln, 1872. An added year in the School of Theology, Lincoln, and he was in public life, where, for these nearly seventy-two years (1873-1945), he has been rendering service to humanity and to God. But the whole of life, since, as a boy of fourteen, he breathed the air of freedom, in 1865, and entered the world of letters, he has lived in touch with books, applying the mind seriously and thoughtfully in order to treasure up knowledge and wisdom. That, in his calling as a teacher of men, he might cause them to think wisely and conduct themselves so as to obtain the approval of men and the blessings of God. Honorary degrees have been liberally bestowed upon him. The Baptist School, Louisville, Ky., and Roger Williams University, Nashville, Tennessee, were first to bestow the Doctor of Divinity degree. Since those early days, Lincoln and Howard University have done likewise. Soon after he became pastor of Nineteenth Street Baptist Church, Washington, D. C., in 1882, Lincoln conferred the honorary degree of A.M. and later, LL.D. Of his marriage to Eva Holmes, soon after leaving school, were born ten children. His second wife, Florence Swann, died in 1931; his third wife, Mrs. Viola Washington, he married on his 82nd birthday; Member of Virginia Historical Society and many other organizations; Visited Scotland, London, Paris, and other European cities.

The Board of City Trust and the City of Philadelphia were recently reminded by Dr. N. F. Mossell of their obligation to one of their minority groups. The statements immediately following are a further example of the Doctor's devotion to civic righteousness:

Now that much is being written and said about the duties of the Board of City Trust, the Girard Estate and the disposition of the vast accumulations of funds, I feel that it is fitting that I should again call attention to what I consider very definite moral, if not also legal obligations, involving both the Board of City Trust and the City of Philadelphia. In 1891 I had a colored orphan presented to Girard College, considered one of the wealthiest educational foundations in the country, for admission. Mr. Boyd, the then superintendent, promptly refused him admission, quoting from the will that "only poor white male orphan children were eligible". Conrad Hubert, the first colored member of the City Council, took up the cause of our little orphan, Frank Wilson. He made the following inquiry of the City Solicitor through a resolution passed by council, "Can the City of Philadelphia be used to execute acts that discriminate against a portion of the citizens on account of color?" We based our contention then, in part, upon a ruling of Judge Story rendered in 1844, at which time the will of Stephen Girard was under attack by heirs. He said, "It is true that if the trust be repugnant or inconsistent with proper purpose for which the corporation was created, that may furnish ground why the corporation may not be required to execute it." The question was referred to Charles F. Warwick, then City Solicitor, who ruled against us.

"Repugnant, Inconsistent"

We recognize the right of individuals to make such a will, but as part of this corporation, we object to being a party to its execution, for to us, it is both repugnant and inconsistent.

Now that these distinguished gentlemen in charge of the trust are thinking of expanding the accumulated funds for public welfare their hearts may be moved to help some of our colored charities or Educational Institutions, especially if they will lend a listening ear to the manner in which Stephen Girard obtained his wealth.

The following quotation is taken from so good an authority as Graymen La Coste, Corresponding member of the Academy of Science, Belles Lettres and Art of Bordeaux, also of the Academy of Legislation of Toulouse; member of the Commission on Historic Monuments, and author of several works on San Domingo;

6,000,000 Francs to Phila.

"By the exercise of the strictest economy Toussaint L'Ouverture managed to secure for a new enterprise 6,000,000 francs passed into the keeping of Stephen Girard, an American, who at the time was conducting an intensive commerce with San Domingo. Girard became the financial agent of Toussaint L'Ouverture, the custodian of over a million dollars of his money. The arrival of the French Expedition commanded by General Le Clerc prevented Toussaint from carrying out his great project. The peculiar character of events which preceded the expedition of Le Clerc prevented any suspicion from resting on those who removed their valuables and money to the neutral vessels sheltered in the harbor of Cape Haiti. The 6,000,000 francs were never returned by Girard, but found their way with other things to the City of Philadelphia, U. S. A."

We are also informed by the best authorities that this man Girard, at the time of his death, owned large plantations in Louisiana, 280,000 acres, with several hundred slaves, and that his will provided that half the proceeds from their labors should be placed to the support of his Philadelphia project.

It may long continue to be held that the city has a legal right to administer this estate and exclude colored orphans, but a more flagrant case of law as opposed to every moral instinct never existed.

I have, for long years, had intimate contact with many of the Haitian people. I had a brother who resided there many years and was the author of an outstanding history of the Haitian people. He substantiates the facts that I have outlined above.

Men who may boast of superior training, and of fine sensibilities as possessed by our Board of City Trust will surely not sidestep so clear a moral obligation (much less should this city of "Brotherly Love") as the history of this case shows. I am anxious that these facts have a permanent recording such as your publication will furnish. I may not live to see this great wrong corrected. I am confident, however, that sooner or later it will be done.

CLANSMEN PROTEST

Under the guidance and direction of Dr. N. F. Mossell a call to action was sent out with following announcement:

A CALL TO ACTION

Philadelphia, October 20, 1906
We, the citizens of the City of Philadelphia, do unanimously and most positively protest against the exhibition of "The Clansman" in this city in the Walnut Street Theatre as announced for next week commencing Monday evening the 22d inst. No agency has done more to arouse a spirit of antipathy against the Negro and to bring about a war of races than this play and because of its dangerous influence it has been driven out of a number of cities in the South and also in the West.

We, the citizens, have determined that it shall not play in the Walnut Street Theatre during the coming week.

All citizens are called upon to appear at the doors of the theatre on Monday night to make an effectual protest.

We put at least 10,000 people in and around the theatre demanding that the play be suppressed. Mayor Weaver, acting upon his authority under a City Ordinance to suppress any play that incites to riot, demanded that the theatre be closed to the play after the first night. Mr. Thomas Dixon, the author, took the matter to court to restrain the Mayor. Judge Sulzberger ruled that the play was an outrageous slander upon a long suffering minority of our population. The play has never since been able to be repeated in any community in Pennsylvania. This is an exhibition of what can be done through mass movement efficiently and courageously directed.

Co-founder National Association for Advancement of Colored People organized in New York in 1909. Gave $150.00 towards the salary of the editor of the Crisis; the journal of the N.A.A.C.P. Upon my return to Philadelphia I sent my personal check for fifty paid yearly subscriptions for the Crisis to fifty subscribers of the Douglass Hospital representing leading citizens of Philadelphia. In 1912 I organized the Philadelphia branch of the N.A.A.C.P. This branch now consists of 17,000 members.
