

President - Elect Meets the Press

DR. NIARA SUDARKASA
Lincoln's President-Elect

(The following statement was read by Lincoln's President-Elect Dr. Niara Sudarkasa at her first press conference Oct. 17, 1986. She takes office Feb. 1, 1987.)

"It is a special honor for me to have been chosen to lead Lincoln University as it prepares to make its mark in American higher education in the twenty-first century. This great University was founded more than one hundred and thirty years ago on the twin pillars of educational excellence and equality of opportunity. Historically, Lincoln has attracted outstanding students from America and abroad, and has dedicated itself to the training of leaders of national and international stature. It is my firm resolve to strengthen and build on that tradition of excellence. I believe that with the help and support of the entire Lincoln family -- faculty, students, staff, alumni and trustees -- we shall move the University to a new level of accomplishment and distinction.

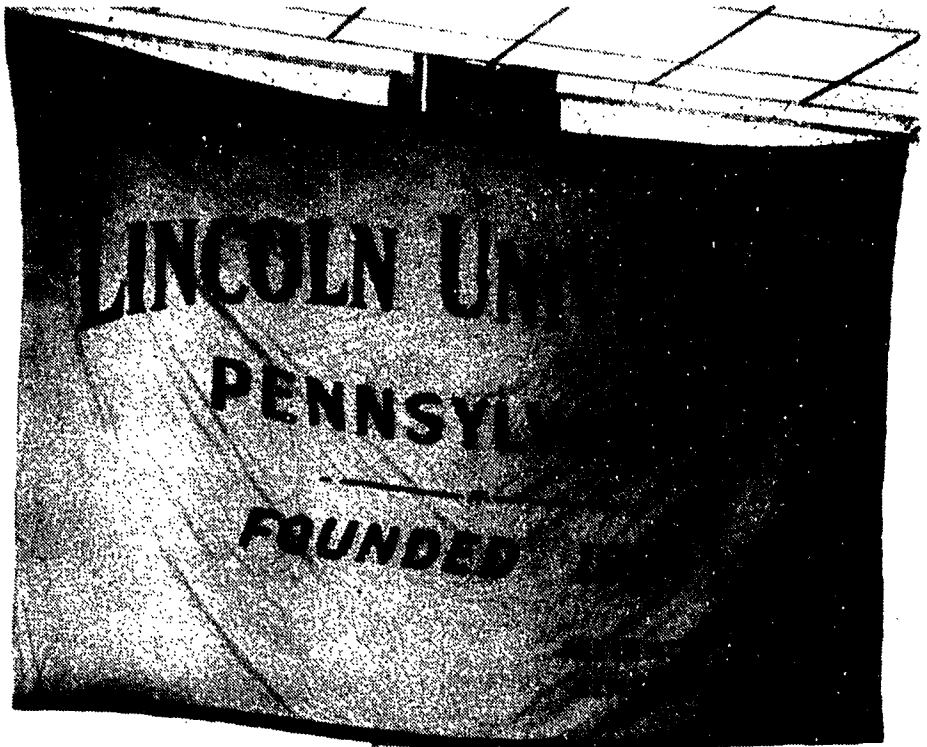

"Lincoln's mission has always been to provide education of the highest possible quality to young people with promise, potential, and the determination to succeed. I shall pledge my efforts and those of the members of my administrative team to the goal of strengthening and continuing that mission. Lincoln must endeavor to provide training of a quality and calibre that will enable it to reclaim a place among the truly distinguished small colleges and universities in this country.

This means that we must continue to build a challenging curriculum and a first-rate faculty. This means that we must be alert to technological innovations and their potential usefulness in the educational process. This means that we must attract to Lincoln bright and eager students whose curiosity, creativity, and strength of character will impel them to always strive to achieve their personal best.

To pursue its commitment to distinction in undergraduate education, Lincoln will need to attract additional resources to support faculty recruitment and development as well as student recruitment and retention. As president, I will make a special effort to mobilize Lincoln's alumni in support of our vision of the future. I shall also work to capture

Executive Secretary*

Dr. H. Alfred Farrell

Please Note: To eliminate any confusion, checks intended for payment of alumni dues or contributions to the General Alumni Association should be made out to the General Alumni Association and sent to the Executive Secretary.

Contributions to Lincoln University should specify the name Lincoln University.

Reunion Class Secretaries: Are there persons in your class who should be nominated for consideration for an Alumni Award? Send your nominations to the Executive Secretary who will see that they get consideration at the meeting of The Council of the Association on February 28, 1987.

Gospel Ensemble Albums: The album recorded by the Gospel Ensemble of Lincoln University would make an ideal gift not only at Christmas but at anytime during the coming New Year. Send a check or money order for $8 (postage included) to the Executive Secretary. Albums will be mailed upon receipt of orders.

the attention and imagination of leaders in the public and private sectors to persuade them of the value of supporting our goals and efforts. In all these endeavors, I seek, need and depend on the support of the Board of Trustees and the entire University community.

"While Lincoln will pledge itself to provide quality education for students from all racial and ethnic backgrounds, we will continue our special mission on behalf of Black students. As we approach the threshold of the twenty-first century, many people are questioning the viability of the nation's historically Black colleges and universities. Although circumstances threaten the survival of some of these institutions, recent trends in the education of Black students show that the rationale for these Black colleges is as compelling today as it was in the late nineteenth and early twentieth century.

Lincoln's state-related status affords it a measure of fiscal security that helps to assure its survival, but I am of the view that Lincoln should not enter the twenty-first century in a 'survival' mode. It should go forward determined to succeed as an institution building on a tradition of excellence for an even greater tomorrow. Lincoln can and should become a model for what the best of the historically Black colleges can contribute to American higher education in the decades ahead.

Four Lincoln Scholars Participate In Nuclear Energy Training Program

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY SENIOR, Todd Anderson (right), and James Walters (center), a South Carolina State College senior, measure the angular response of radiation survey instruments with instruction from Dr. Roger Coutier, director of Oak Ridge Association Universities' Professional Training Program. Four Lincoln scholars participated in the institute's summer Nuclear Energy Training Program.

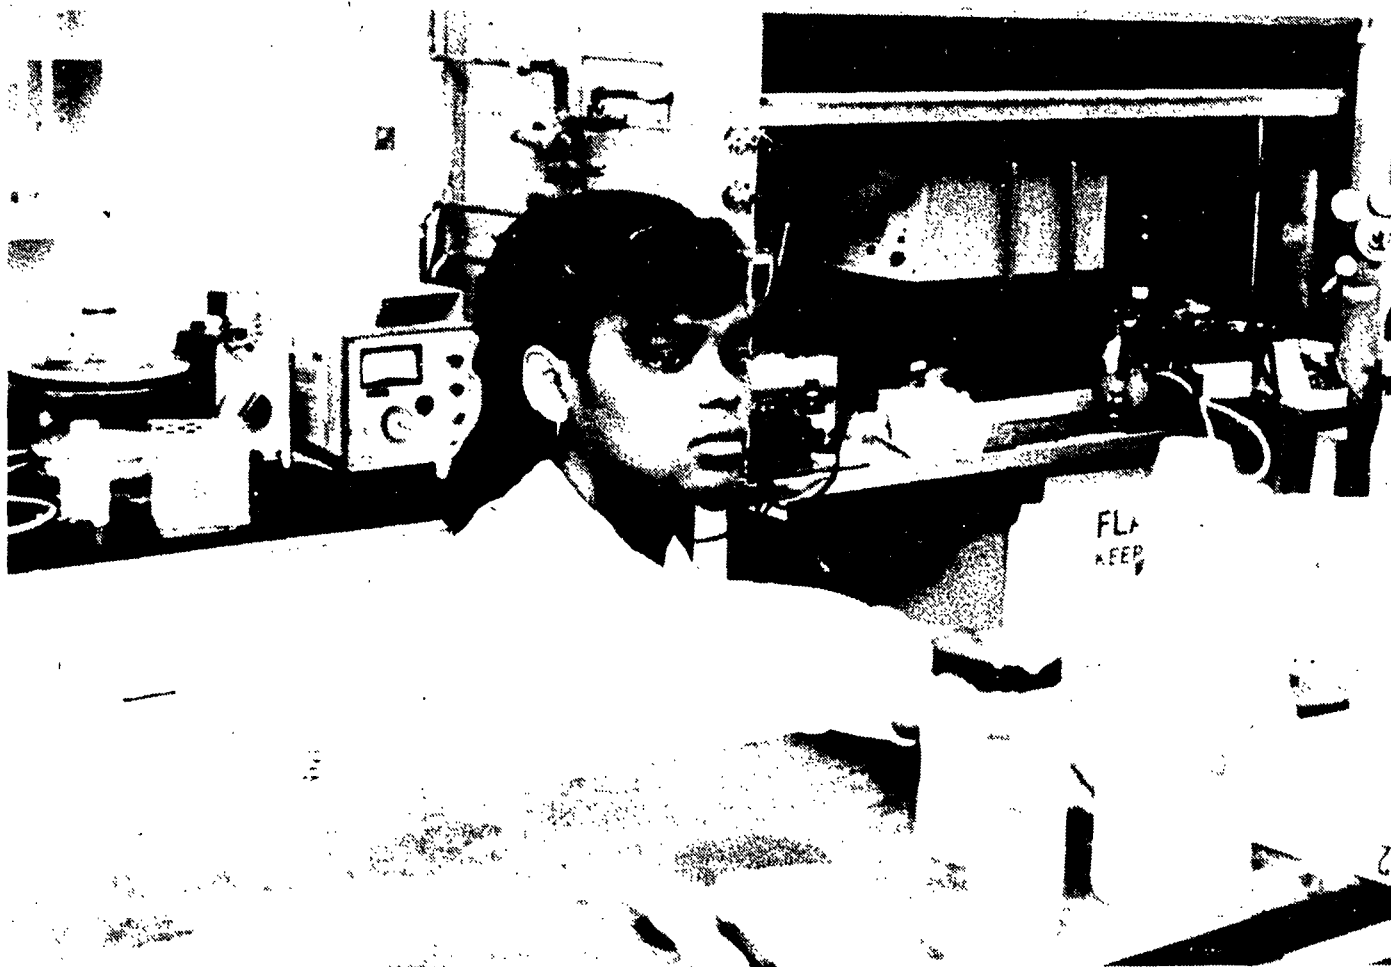

Two 1986 Lincoln graduates, Sharon Boulding and Carol Person, and two Lincoln seniors, Todd Anderson and Octavia Blount, took part in the Second Annual Student Training Institute for students from historically black colleges and universities who have scholarships or fellowships under the U.S. Department of Energy's Nuclear Energy Training Program.

Designed to prepare top students for nuclear energy careers, the two-week program was held May 26-June 6, 1986, at Oak Ridge Associated Universities in Oak Ridge, Tenn., and was immediately followed by nine week research appointments.

All four Lincoln students were assigned to Argonne National Laboratory. Anderson worked in the area of electrochemical studies of advanced battery systems; Blount's area was isotope correlation techniques for material control and accounting throughout the nuclear fuel cycle system; Boulding's work was in solvent extraction of fission product metal ion in nuclear waste, and Person's area was analytical chemistry.

The Nuclear Energy Training Program is a cooperative effort of Oak Ridge Associated Universities, Manpower Education, Research, and Training Division (MERIT) and the University Programs Division. Funding is through the Office of Nuclear Energy, and MERT's Professional Training Programs provide the facilities, which contain specialized scientific equipment worth more than $2 million.

Lincoln Student Works In National Laboratory

Tammy Grimes, a junior chemistry major at Lincoln, worked this past summer at Los Alamos National Laboratory in New Mexico, under the Laboratory's Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCU) Program.

Grimes, a graduate of Franklin Learning Center High School in Philadelphia, worked in the Isotope and Nuclear Chemistry Division, assisting with investigations of the toxins produced by plants. The laboratory is operated by the University of California for the Department of Energy.

The HBCU Program is part of a national effort to help students broaden their educational efforts and widen their scientific and technical knowledge in a laboratory environment.

Grimes plans a career in pediatrics.

Park Named In Honor of William M. Ashby, '11

Lincoln's oldest known living alumnus, William M. Ashby, '11, was honored on his 97th birthday, October 15, 1986, when the Newark Municipal Council resolved to designate Wallace Park at West Market Street and 12th Avenue in Newark, N.J., as William M. Ashby/Wallace Park "in honor of one of Newark's oldest and most distinguished citizens."

The resolution, an inscribed copy of which was presented to Ashby, recalls his many community contributions during a long career and notes that the park is close to his home and the scene of much of his work. It also requests that signs bearing Ashby's name be installed on the edge of the park in the near future.

Ashby, who was born in Newport News, Va., in 1889, was also feted as guest of honor at a birthday party held at Newark's Garden Restaurant by the Newark Preservation and Landmarks Committee, of which he is co-founder. The group's president, Elizabeth Del Tufo, called Ashby "an important figure in Newark's development" and "one of our strongest motivating forces . . . whose sense of history was instrumental in founding (this) committee."

New Jersey's first black social worker, Ashby was instrumental in establishing the first branch of the National Urban League in Newark, as well as branches in Elizabeth and Springfield. His many other accomplishments include the establishment of Fuld Neighborhood House and the Newark Welfare Federation and Community Chest, which is the forerunner of the United Way.

The subject of a book, Tales Without Hate, published in 1980, Ashby was described as "a tireless fighter for human rights" by The New York Times. He has been married to the former Mary Arnold for 71 years. They have no living children.

Class of '42 Awards Scholarship to Senior

The CLASS OF 1942, under the direction of its president, Albert J. Neeley, has awarded $1,500 from its Memorial Scholarship Fund to Lincoln senior Anita Connors.

Awarded annually since 1983, the Scholarship Fund was established in 1982 in memory of deceased class members. Award money is from interest earned on a $10,000 principal sum, which was donated by members of the Class of 1942.

The scholarship is given at the end of each academic year to a junior, sophomore, or freshman (in rotation) who shows the greatest progress (but not necessarily with the highest scholastic standing) and whose industry and motivation have resulted in meritorious growth in leadership and academic attainment. Selection is made by Lincoln's Student Government Association.

The scholarship winner must return to Lincoln the year following the award, and moneys must be used for tuition, room and board, or other school costs.

'46

Dr. EDWARD S. COOPER, professor of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine in Philadelphia, Pa., received an Award of Merit from the American Heart Association at its delegate assembly held recently in Kansas City, Mo. The honor was based on his contributions to cardiovascular medicine as a longtime member and past president of the group's Stroke Council.

'68

Dr. J. PAUL STEPHENS, director of the Institutional Aid Program, has been appointed to serve as Lincoln's Affirmative Action Officer.

'77

Dr. JOSEPH AUSTIN, JR. is a pulmonary fellow at St. Luke's-Roosevelt Hospital in New York. He completed his internship and residency at the Nassau County Medical Center and received his M.D. degree from Rutgers Medical School. Dr. Austin is engaged to Veronica Spencer, an account supervisor at a New York advertising agency; an August wedding is planned.

'80

DAVID CONNER has been named new car sales manager for Smith Volkswagen Ltd. in Newark, Del., representing Alfa Romeo's line of luxury Italian sports cars. A resident of Nottingham, Pa., Conner is a member of the American Red Cross Disaster Team and the International Star Class Yacht Racing Association.

'81

Dr. STEVEN W. FERGUSON, who received his M.D. degree from Case-Western Reserve Medical School in May, is doing his residency at Mercy Catholic Hospital in Philadelphia. Dr. Ferguson is married to the former Patricia D. Poulson, '80.

'82

TIMOTHY MCGILBERRY is a certified public accountant with Blue Shield of Harrisburg, Pa. He is married to the former Rhonda Johnson of Reading, Pa.

How The Lion Came To Be Called The Lion

The lion, because it is known as the "King of the Forest Tribes," was selected as a symbol by Lincoln's football team in the fall of 1922. "The Crystal," an undergraduate monthly publication which began in January 1922, changed its name to "The Lion" in 1923 "in harmony with the sentiments of the undergraduate body."

Playwright Abram Hill, '38

Funeral services were held for Abram Hill, a prominent figure in the development and growth of Black theater who helped performers such as Harry Belafonte, Sidney Poitier and Ruby Dee begin their careers.

Hill died Oct. 6, 1986 in his Harlem home after suffering from emphysema, a family friend, George Lee said. Hill was 76.

He founded the American Negro Theater in Harlem in 1940. The troupe started rehearsing and performing in the basement of the Abyssinian Baptist Church and the 135th Street library.

It achieved major success with Hill's adaptation of "Anna Lucasta," a play about a Polish family which he transformed into a story about Blacks.

That play opened on Broadway in August 1944 and ran for 900 performances, becoming one of Broadway's longest-running non-musicals.

Hill was born Jan. 20, 1910, in Atlanta and came to New York at 13.

He attended City College and graduated from Lincoln University in Pennsylvania. He returned to New York in 1938 and joined the Federal Theater Project, during which time he wrote several plays, including, "On Striver's Row," "Hell's Half Acre" and "Liberty Deferred."

Hill then started the American Negro Theater, which he left in 1948.

Some of the alumni of the theater include Belafonte, Poitier and Miss Dee.

From 1957 until 1980, he taught English in New York City schools.

He is survived by his wife, Ruth, a sister and a brother.

'75

GREGORY JOHNSON of Kennett Square, Pa., died April 18 at the Medical Center of Delaware in Stanton. He was 35. A special education teacher in the Coatesville Area School District, he was a member of Phi Beta Sigma and a Certified Public Accountant.

Fritz Pollard, Former LU and NFL Coach

Fritz Pollard, who coached football at Lincoln for two undefeated seasons in 1918 and 1919 and went on to become the only black head coach of a National Football League team, died on May 11, 1986, in Silver Spring, Md. He was 92.

A member of the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame and longtime New York City businessman, Pollard was named to Walter Camp's all-American team while at Brown University. After his college career, he began professionally as a running back with the Akron Pros in 1919 (while coaching at Lincoln). In 1921, he led all scorers with 42 points.

Pollard served officially as head coach of the Hammond Pros of Indiana during the 1923-24-25 seasons. He also played for the NFL's Milwaukee team and with the Providence Steamrollers. After coaching a number of semipro teams in the coal leagues of Pennsylvania, he coached between 1933 and 1946 the Brown Bombers, an all-black semipro team in New York that played other pro teams in charity games.

As a businessman, he owned coal companies in Harlem and Chicago, ran the People's Voice newspaper, headed the Suntan Movie Studios in Harlem and did tax consultant and public relations work.

Pollard was cremated at the Fort Lincoln Cemetery in Brentwood, Md. He is survived by three daughters and a son, Fritz Jr.

Alma Mater

Dear Lincoln, Dear Lincoln,
To thee we'll e'er be true.
The golden hours we spend beneath
The dear old Orange and Blue,
Will live for e'er in memory,
As guiding stars through life;
For thee, our Alma Mater dear,
We will rise in our might.

For we love ev'ry inch of thy sacred soil,
Ev'ry tree on thy campus green;
And for thee with our might
We will ever toil
That thou mightest be supreme.
We'll raise thy standard to the sky,
Midst glory and honor to fly,
And constant and true
We will live for thee anew,
Our dear old Orange and Blue.
Hail! Hail! Lincoln.
