WHAT IS A UNIVERSITY?

It is the place to which a thousand schools make contributions; in which the intellect may safely range and speculate, sure to find its equal in some antagonist activity, and its judge in the tribunal of truth. It is a place where inquiry is pushed forward, and discoveries verified and perfected, and rashness rendered innocuous, and error exposed, by the collision of mind with mind, and knowledge with knowledge. It is the place where the professor becomes eloquent, and is a missionary and a preacher, displaying his science in its most complete and most winning form, pouring it forth with the zeal of enthusiasm, and lighting up his own love of it in the breasts of his hearers. It is the place where the catechist makes good his ground as he goes, treading in the truth day by day into the ready memory, and wedging and tightening it into the expanding reason. It is a place which wins the admiration of the young by its celebrity, kindles the affections of the middle-aged by its beauty, and rivets the fidelity of the old by its associations. It is a seat of wisdom, a light of the world, a minister of the faith, an Alma Mater of the rising generation.

Advice is generally worthless because it is given by those who are old enough not to make those mistakes they would make again if only they were young enough. Sentiment restrained for the occasion is limp. Exhortation is pompous, and prophecy is presumptuous. But I know there is among human beings, as among contiguous cells, a process called osmosis, which has made some small, but nourishing, parts of your lives my life and some bits of me you. This interpenetration, moving in the free flow of experience, makes separations in time and place unreal and identity a wonderfully rich mystery.

My best wishes -

Edward Shreff

My best and sincerest wishes for continued success in all your future endeavors!

yearbook editors

The 1966 edition of The Lion may seem to be a radical departure from tradition. Yet, traditionally, a college yearbook is a pictorial record of memories which can scarcely be captured in words. Your editors have sought to make the memories of the Class of 1966 more enduring by using pictures of the students and faculty informally engaged in the many activities taking place on campus, for these are the things you will remember when names and faces in formal portraits have become the names and faces of strangers. We have tried to enhance tradition rather than break with it, and we hope that in the years which follow, you will look back over these pages and smile and remember what being a Lincoln student meant in 1966.

Donald E. Bogle and Florence V. Collins

faculty and administration

The graduates of Lincoln University have made great contributions to humanity. The Class of 1966 already has demonstrated its commitment to creative thought and action and to the quest for freedom and the truth. We know that members of the class will be in the center of the struggle for the truly Great Society. Carry on!

Marvin Wachman

My very best wishes to the Class of 1966! I am sure that you will uphold Lincoln's best traditions as you move forward to new responsibilities. We will watch your future with interest and confidence.

Arthur J. Nowell, Jr.

Class of 1966

To those of you leaving Alma Mater to take your places in the world, these words of United States Secretary of Labor Wirtz are fitting:

"Tomorrow belongs to those who face the fact of change honestly, squarely, eagerly — who go forward to meet it — who see change as an essential quality of growth, who see growth as the meaning of life and who believe that the future is a good idea."

Bon Voyage — — Leroy D. Johnson '31
Dean of the College

It is our fond hope that the members of this graduating class will do as well or better than those who preceded them. We expect that a number of you will continue your education, while others will find gainful employment. But above all we hope that you will be active in your community and contribute in a large measure to its welfare.

Carl Kuehner

The Lincoln University has been justifiably proud of the contributions of its graduates to society and to their personal advancement. I believe the Class of 1966 will augment this tradition.

class history

It was in the Fall of '62 when we first walked under that magic arch-way. There were 123 of us then, and all of us felt good about that arch-way, those green and orange beanies, and many other things -- roadhouse runs, beer parties, wood night preparations, and bull sessions. When we were not at the roadhouse or rabbling in one another's rooms, we spent our time studying, and it was then that we learned what an "all-night-stand" really was. All of these things were integral parts of our introduction to dormitory life.

Somehow, however, between our studying chores and our introduction to dormitory life, we settled down and elected class officers. Tom Gray (better known then as 'Hackensack') was president, and Donald Bogle (vice-pres.), June Bowers (sec.), and Kenny Powell (treas.) were our other officers. Our class senators were Norman Armstrong, Sonny Jefferson, and Reggy Lee. The academic honors of the class went to Florence Collins, who made straight A's both that Freshman year and the Sophomore year that followed.

It was in the Sophomore year that we lost a quarter of our class, and all night stands became more important to us than roadhouse runs. Also important were fraternity initiations and other organizations and activities, all of which seemed to divide our class into separate groups.

Our officers that Sophomore year were Rick Ireland (pres.), Herschel Bailey (vice pres.), Elmore Phillips (sec.), and Kenny Powell (treas.). They held the fort until our Junior year, which proved to be one of the most interesting.

It was during our Junior year that as a class we were once again divided -- this time it was an academic rather than social division. We started to major in different areas, and we all tended to "stick" with those in our fields. Academically, we all worked harder than ever, and it was in this year that other juniors -- besides a certain co-ed -- made the Dean's List. Our Junior Class officers were Wesley Raney (pres.), Charles Spain (vice-pres.), Claudia Van Blake (sec.), and Vaughn Thomas (treas.).

In our Senior year, we all started reminiscing, wishing we could start all over again with the knowledge of life and studies we had now acquired. Those days of green beanies seemed a welcome relief to those we now faced, which loomed big with comprehensives and GRE's.

As Seniors we noticed many changes that had occurred during the past four years. There was the addition of the Student Union and Fine Arts Buildings as well as close to 50 co-eds who now had a dormitory of their own. And it was also interesting to note that of those original seven Freshman Class officers, only two graduated with our class. One, Donald Bogle, became the editor of our yearbook, and the other, Norman Armstrong, became the president of our Senior Class. The other Senior Class officers were Elmore Phillips (vice-pres.), Claudia Van Blake (sec.), and Rick Ireland (treas.). Although our class had dwindled to 81 and although we had all gone on to higher academic heights, one thing remained constant: Florence Collins was still a straight A student, and she went on to become valedictorian of our class. And Florence and Claudia Van Blake were the only co-eds, of the original five, to graduate with our class.

As we look back on those early days of roadhouse runs, beer parties, all-night-stands, and, of course, those green and orange beanies, we are all somewhat nostalgic when we realize those days are past and now a part of memory alone. But being nostalgic is good; from the past, we learn more about the future. And from the future we must learn that we are to "grieve not, rather find/Strength in what remains behind."
