

The Faculty Development Grant that I received for the AY 2023-2024 helped me in my writing of a 500-page book interview in two languages, French and English. The English version will be released by June 2025. The French version is already out. It was released in January 2025. Here is the link on Amazon of the French version of the book: <https://www.amazon.fr/panafricanisme-dhier-demain-philosophie-ubuntu/dp/2371584436>.

Pan-Africanism is on rise in the world, particularly in Francophone countries in West Africa, such as Ivory Coast, Senegal, Mali, Niger and Burkina Faso. As many understand its relevance on the continent, I decided to publish that work in French in order to put at the disposal of African elites and masses a book which is intended to provide an updated valuable information on Pan-Africanism. I provided new insights on the phenomenon, including on the 1958 All African People's Conference, which was the theme for which I received the grant. There are several elements on the topic I researched in various parts of the book. But I discussed the significance of the 1958 All African People's Conference from Page 113-136. Thanks.

Best,
Gervais Gnaka